Karen
I love you so much,
I have to tell you
I love you so much,
I have to tell you

study hall without you, Remember every Monday we'd both relate our week's experience and all, well, life is rough
We don't go overboard this summer, you might say. Good luck
Laura Bancroft

Karen
Everybody writes what a beautiful person you are but I wonder if they mean it as much as I do.
Karen - I hope well always I'll be friends and for sure I'll see you this summer!
Bye for now honey
Love Ray

Karen,
Don't forget campy
Hitcher's class right
and early in the morning.
Have fun this summer!
Rob Mitchell

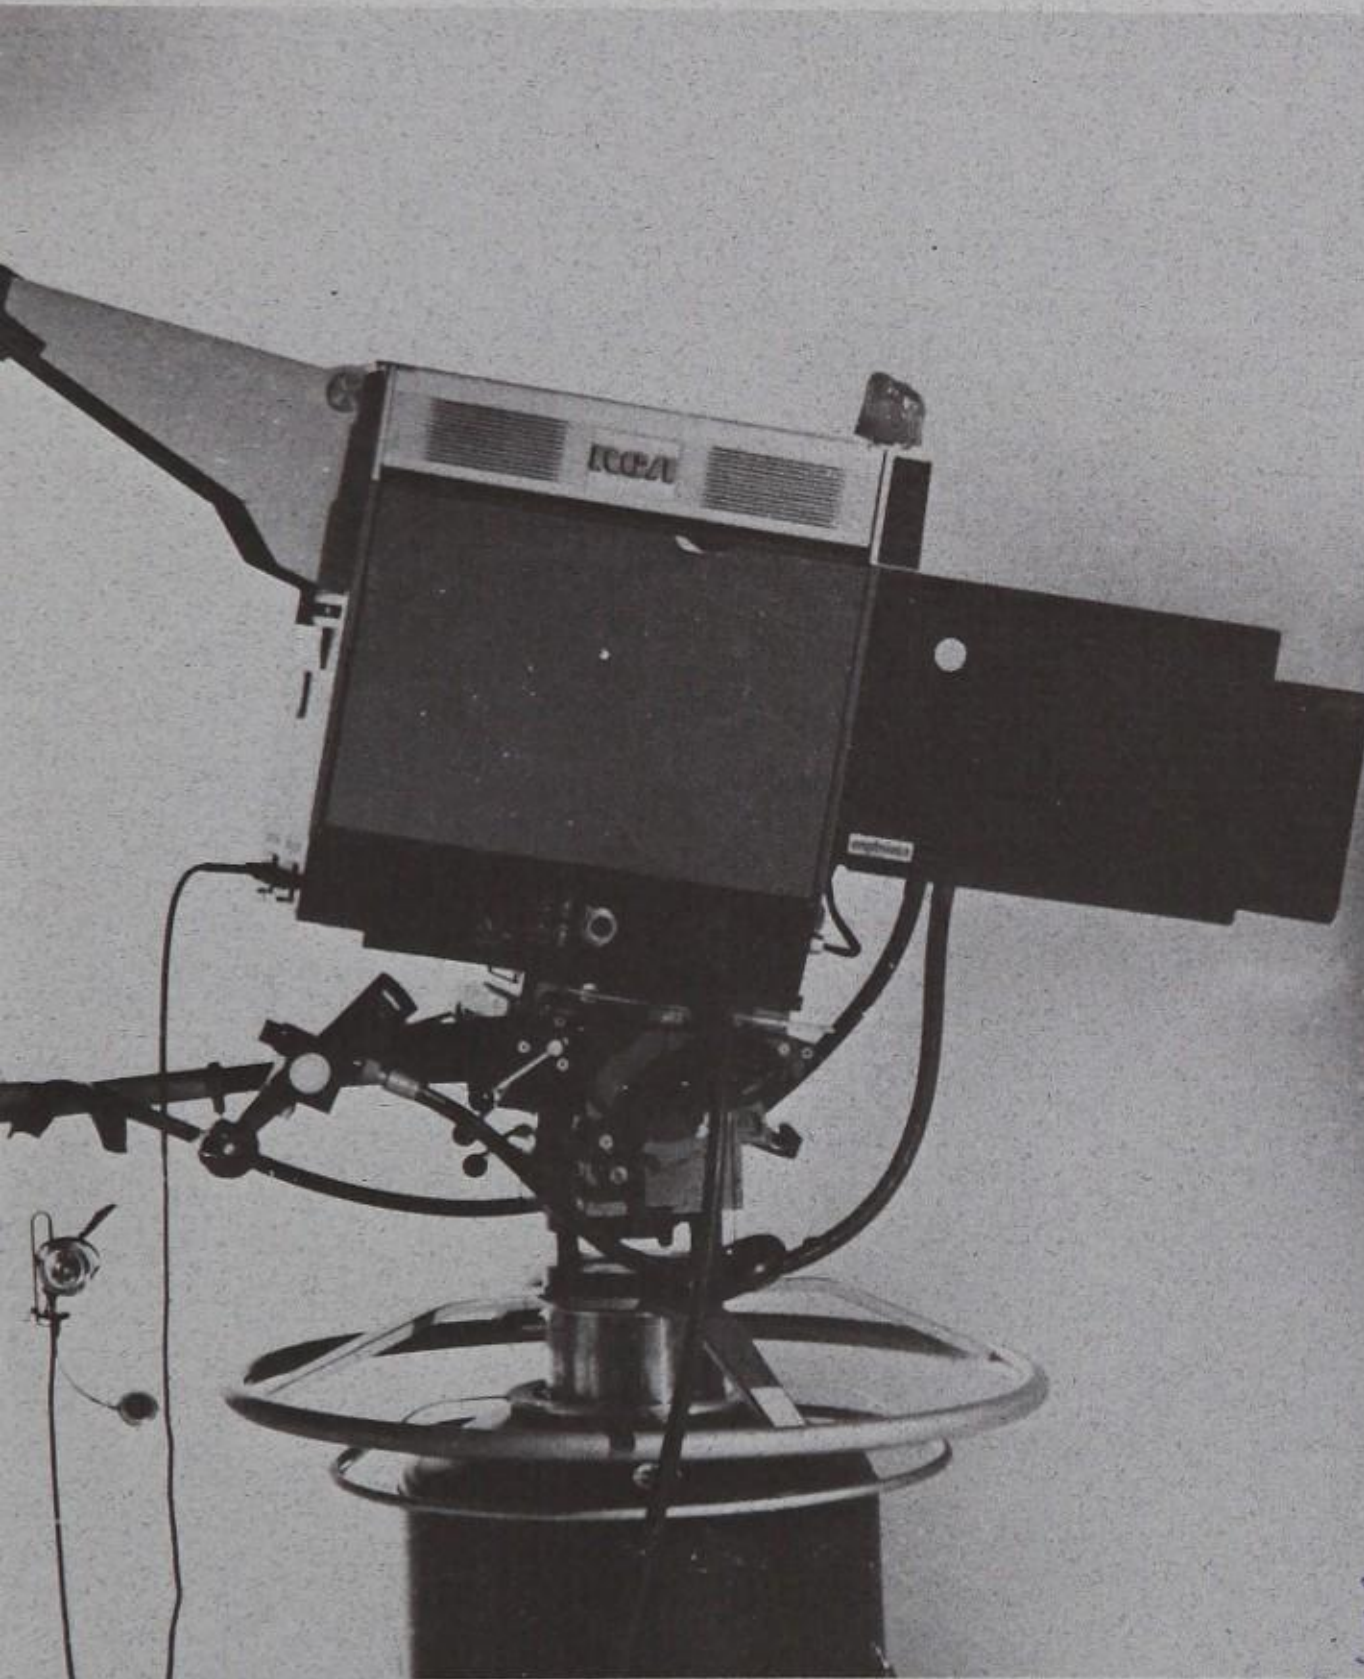

Karen,
You are one of the most people I know. Hope
we'll always be neighbors.
See you this summer.
Mike Fried

Karen -
You are a really sweet person - I really enjoyed your English & Gym classes. I really love you and hope you have a great summer!

This is my last year in high school and I'm glad to go to college. I'll miss you but I'll be back in the summer. I'll be sure to give you a call. Love,
Blessings,
The Guard

rain, it's very hard for a shadow to write it's even harder
trying to write to you!
We remind me of a mirror - you see one, you see of self - you see two as one. It's been fantastic! Hich, speech + gym (1, 2, + 3).
Speech was best. I/we make it - through Mike (precious dear) + now back to Jerry.
This will be better. And we've are year better. And we've Jerry has made me
start driving.
keep you posted!
has made so much
been there but happy now
The best - I'm so happy
Dallas people come up
I don't get into summer
of your ear + any trouble
Harm you Ted
Well, Wanker
I'll miss you much as I think miss his June year they'll I'll
now, you

In Our 25th Year: Welcome to the 1974 PIONEER

Yearbooks are issued once a year here at Greendale. You buy one in the fall, and pick it up the last week of school. Ever wonder just what you're getting, GHS?

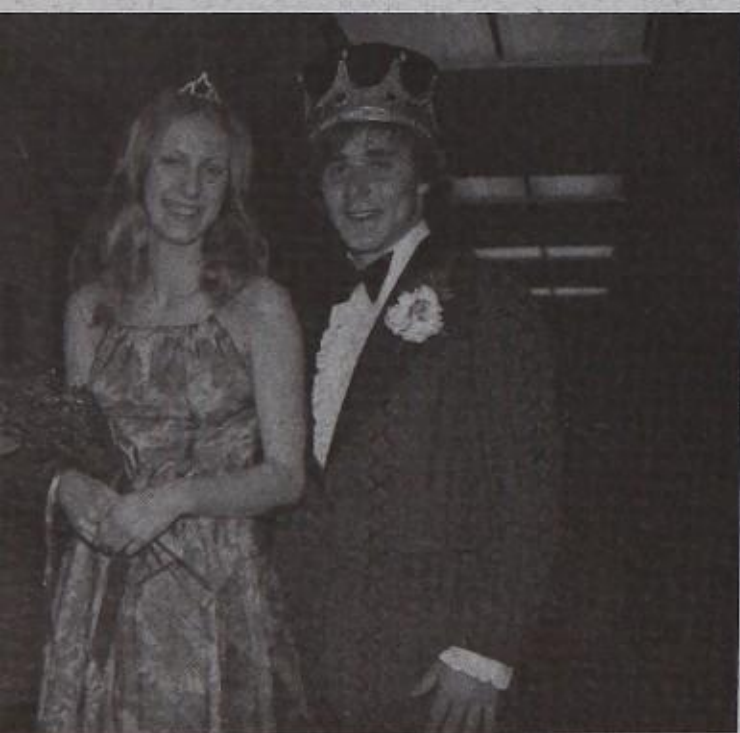

You are buying the history of one year of your life. Undeniably unique, for another book will never be the same. The book is put together by a staff that tried very hard to capture every aspect of life at this school. This book was compiled with minimal censorship. So it's really all here between the green and white covers of your PIONEER 1974.

After you've scanned the pages to see all your pictures and counted the numbers after your name in the index, go back and take another look. Read some of the copy. Look at what other kids in this high school are involved in. Read the captions, too.

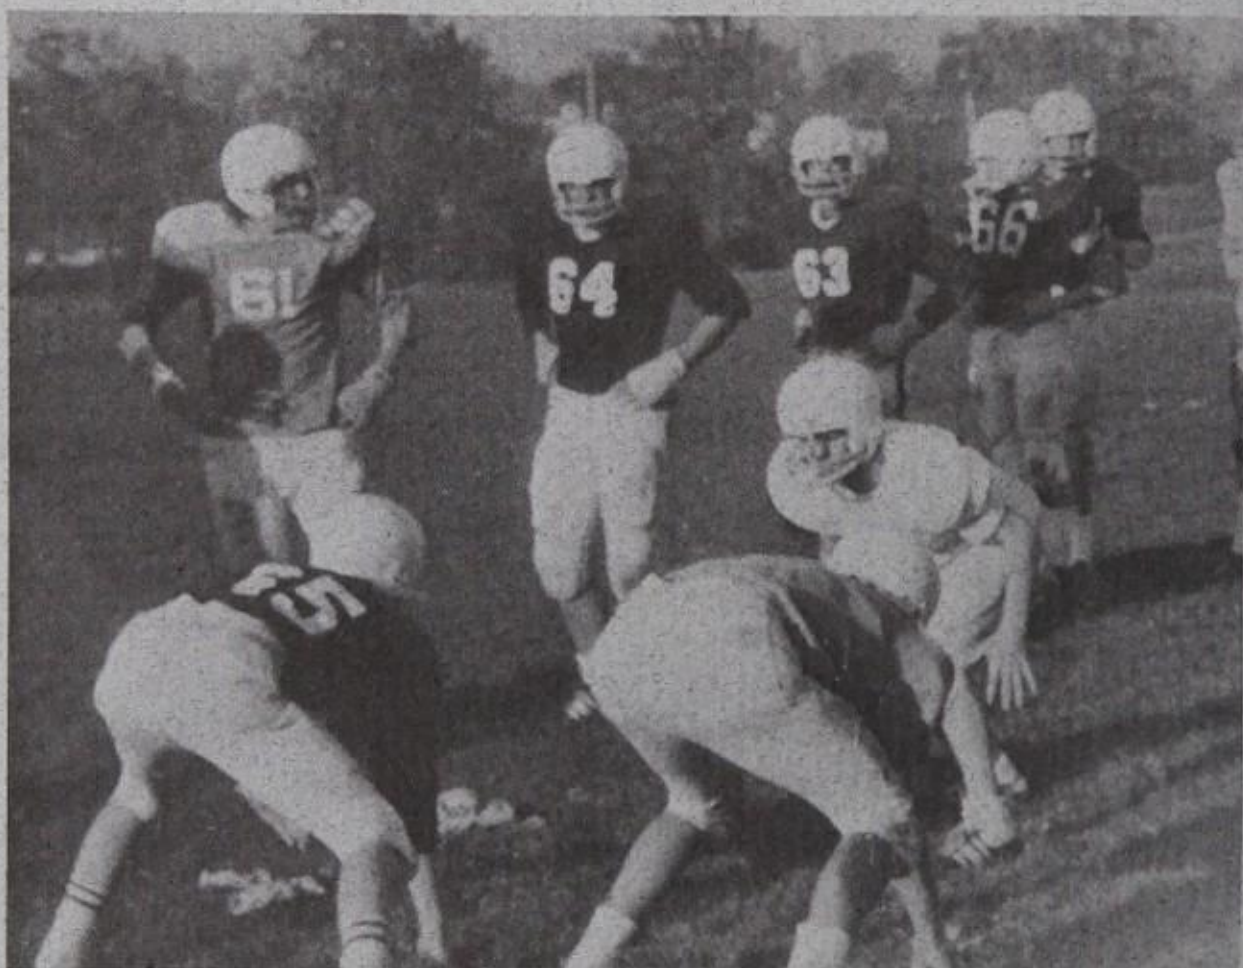

If you don't like this yearbook don't go and complain to the editors. They made the book, but you are the stuff that this yearbook is made of. The PIONEER 1974 is created about you, around you, and for you.

I can't earn thank you for waiting all that nice in my book, but
 I can't read it you

Playback I

The Beginning: Frosh Class of '77

On Sept. 6, there suddenly flowed an unending line of new freshmen through the auditorium doors. They were acknowledged by the faculty, then dismissed to their homerooms wearing that so common first-day (first month?) lost look. They were recognized for their class spirit as well as their class size.

Since then, the frosh have become a common sight at Greendale. Freshmen courses such as Algebra, World History and IPS created learning and experience for the newest class at GHS. Ninth graders worked in the library, helped out in AV, made popcorn and took tickets at the games. They were a vital part of GHS.

The frosh football team was great this year and I bet it'll be the best senior year. (D. Oberthaler) Even though Algebra wasn't my best subject, Mr. Fischer made it fun in class. (T. Paches)

A Little Closer: Sophs of '76

The sophomores were the "spirit of '76". Many sophomore boys were active in varsity football, wrestling, basketball, swimming, and cross-country. The sophomore girls were involved in girls' sports, JV cheerleading and pom-pom girls. The '76'ers staffed the newspaper and yearbook. In every school activity, sophomores enthusiastically participated.

As sixteen year olds, sophomores could finally apply for long-awaited driver's licenses after taking driver's education. Semester-long accredited courses were required before students were eligible for their temporary licenses and the behind the wheel training.

The year also meant more choices in classes. They had one more elective available than the previous year as freshmen. The science course, divided into general biology and biological science curriculum study (BSCS), was further modified, with team-teaching the result. Many sophomores were in Concert Choir and played major parts in the fall play and spring musical.

Getting There: Juniors of '75

1973-74 was an active year for the class of '75. They found themselves caught up in Varsity sports, class administration, and new studies. Juniors were exposed to their first year of elective Gym courses. DECA, a new two year business class was introduced. Working and experiencing exciting new challenges, the Junior class had an eventful year. The Juniors won the float competition, the cheer competition, and the Olympic Games at the weekend festivities that began Friday night at the Pep Rally. The winning float was called "Colonel Kostka's Kentucky Fried Hawks." The Juniors received their long awaited class rings in fall instead of spring this year; each was worn with pride.

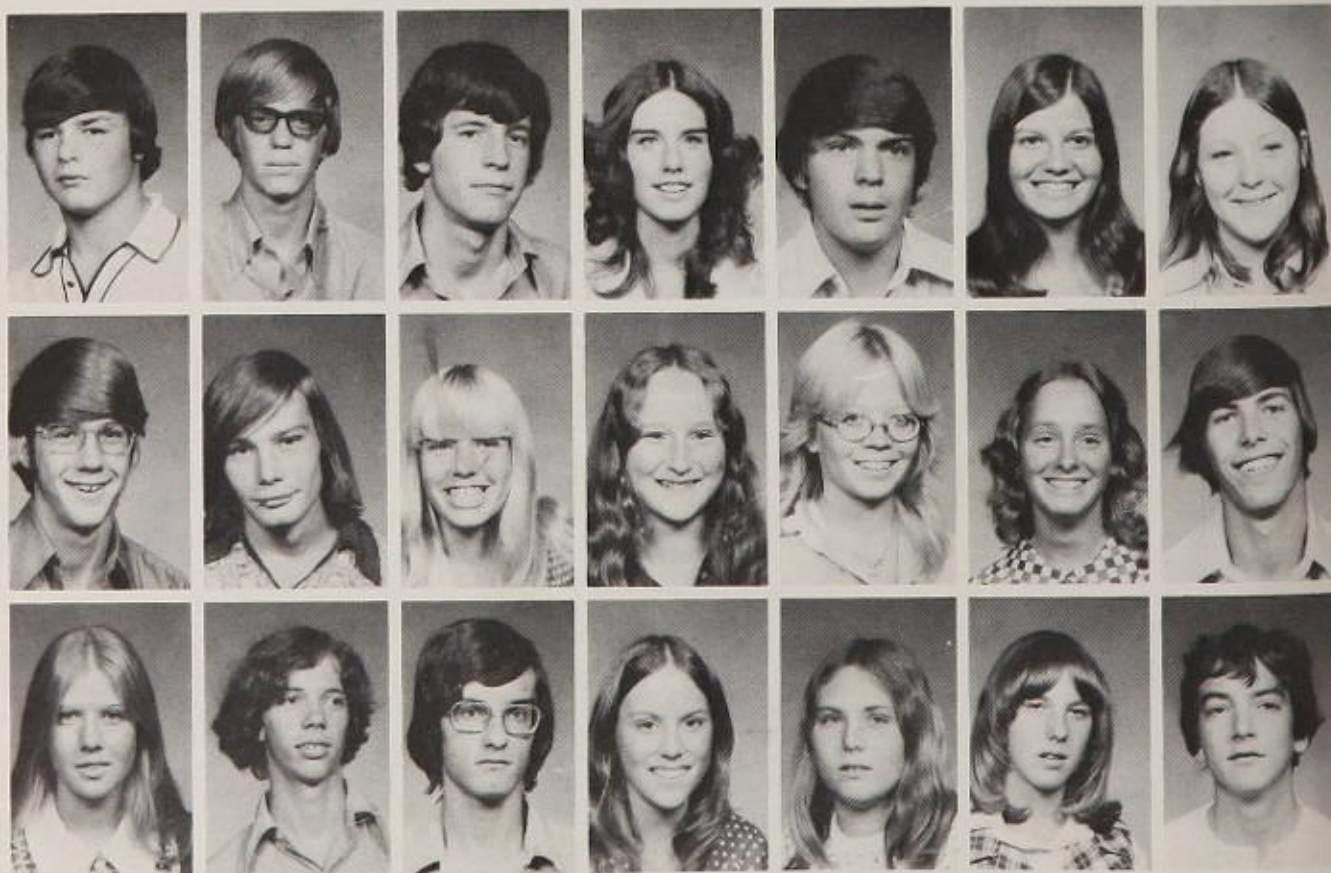

November 6th the Juniors elected class officers: Mike Treske, President; Steve La Rocco, Vice President; Cheri Broderick, Secretary; and Cindy Rogers, Treasurer. May 17th was the night of the Junior class Prom. A feeling of pride and accomplishment for the planning and decorations they had created was evident. Juniors filled their free time with study to provide more free time for increased personal responsibility next year.

1974 Graduating Seniors Made It

The 1974 graduating class experienced a year of decisions. With IPR and the Work-Study Program, many students earned money while trying out a future lifestyle. For example, seniors considering a teaching career were offered a chance to tutor at the Intermediate School. College eligibles, debating whether to go or not to go, turned to their guidance counselor for application forms and college placement test dates.

The typical senior schedule had much flexibility this term. English and Man and Society, programs initiated this fall, offered different courses which were chosen by the students every quarter. In these classes, the course and the instructor were each carefully considered. The required senior health classes, offered as electives in Physical education, covered first aid and sex education. The Physical Education department also expanded its interscholastic sports to include Gymnastics and Girls' Basketball and Softball. As a result, there were as many senior girls with Varsity letters as there were boys. However, the boys evened out the score in Bachelors' Home Economics where they learned to sew and cook.

Senior year, for most, slipped by too fast, and before they knew it, graduation plans had to be made and a gift bought. But along with the many mixed emotions of the class upon graduation came the serious realization of the future they were now ready to face.

1. Jane Kaczmarek played the lead in the Greek tragedy of Antigone. 2. Seniors were concerned about their academic future, too. Paul Cesarz and Jerry Noeske used some of their IPR time for studying. 3. Student government was important to the senior class. Tori Rand filled out a questionnaire regarding the possibility of having a senior commons, as Cheryl Mochalski tallied the results. 4. Carl Barnes gave Tim Styza a helping hand with his shoulder pads during a varsity football game.

1. Dave Szibal was one of a few seniors in fifth hour scuba diving. The class was all boys so they became quite good at the sport. Their abilities were limited only by the pool depths. Dive, Jacques, dive! 2. Laura Bauman and Jane Adams were ready to go home after a long, hard four-hour school day. These seniors really got it rough, hey? 3. Mark Stewart, Sue Toman, and Alan Gerth wasted away their fourth hour English class before Christmas vacation. 4. Marilyn Pranke started trimming the German Christmas tree under the instruction of Miss Ernst. Marilyn doesn't look like she wanted her picture taken, does she?

This year's senior history course was entitled "Man and Society" and it offered electives in religion, humanity and history. This was designed to resemble college classes and seniors got a lot of satisfaction from the course.

It was managed by the Business department. 3. In Business Economics this year, students visited various industries and researched deeply on them. From the reports each student presented in class, they decided which was the best company to invest in. Then they bought stock from that one and kept daily records on the rise and fall of it. Here seniors Liz Seastrand, Pete Malicki, Vicki McDermott, Verne Aebli, Alex Stanioch, Tim Styza, Hal Armstrong, Tori Rand, and Andy Boszhardt discussed the day's stock market happenings. 4. 1973 Prom

"Stairway to Heaven"

May 12, 1973 was the date. Prom was the occasion. "Stairway to Heaven" was an appropriate theme for the enchanted evening. What most couples used to know as the lunchroom became mystically transformed into a star-filled ballroom. Couples danced or sat at the cloth covered tables eating squares of angelfood cake. Frothy punch flowed from silver fountains. Heavenly music was played by the Gregory James band.

King Kurt Miller and Queen Cheryl Mochalski were crowned on a platform of clouds overlooking the prom-goers. Following Kurt and Cheryl in the Grand March was the court, consisting of: Jean Griffith and Dan Davenport, Joni Reiman and Jim Pospyhalla, Nancy Hlavacek and Gary Sellers, Kitty Kienzle and Pete Malicki, LeeAnn Fagan and Steve Ziemer. The rest of the couples followed, promenading to the music of Led Zeppelin. They walked to the auditorium, paused on the stage for pictures, and returned to the dance.

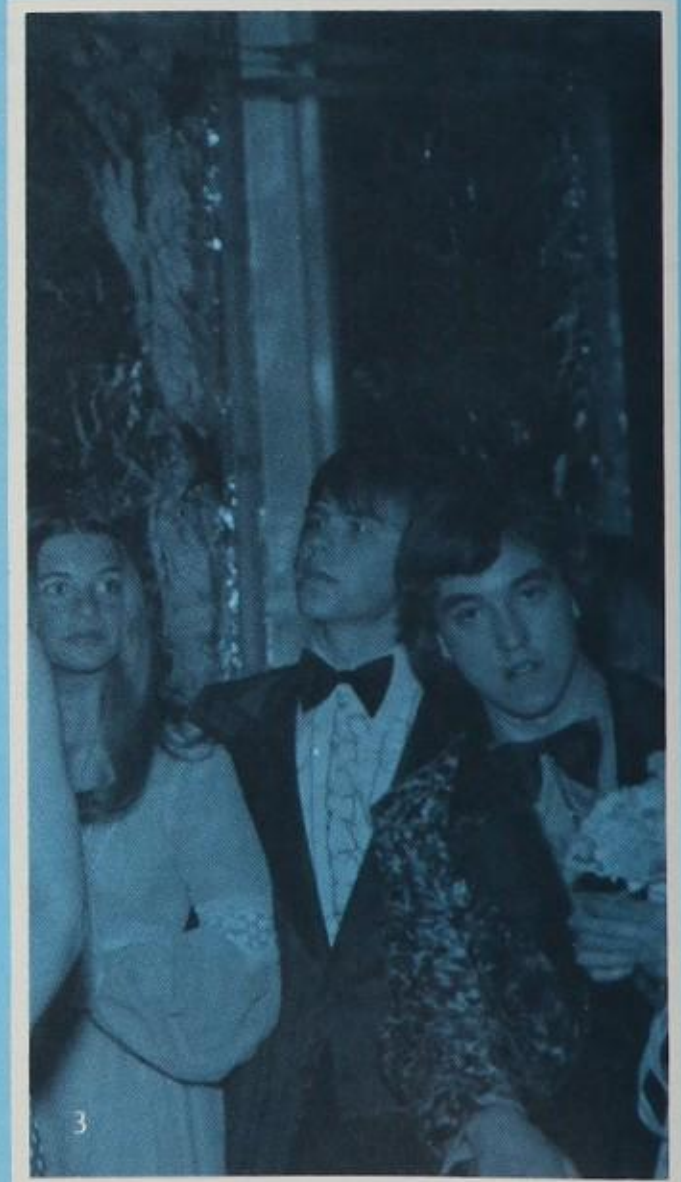

Post Prom at Allis Chalmers ended the evening with dinner, entertainment, and more dancing. Ten lucky people received door prizes, handed out by Cheryl Mochalski. The "Evening in Paris" theme was a good way to bring the couples back to earth after their brief climb on a heavenly staircase.

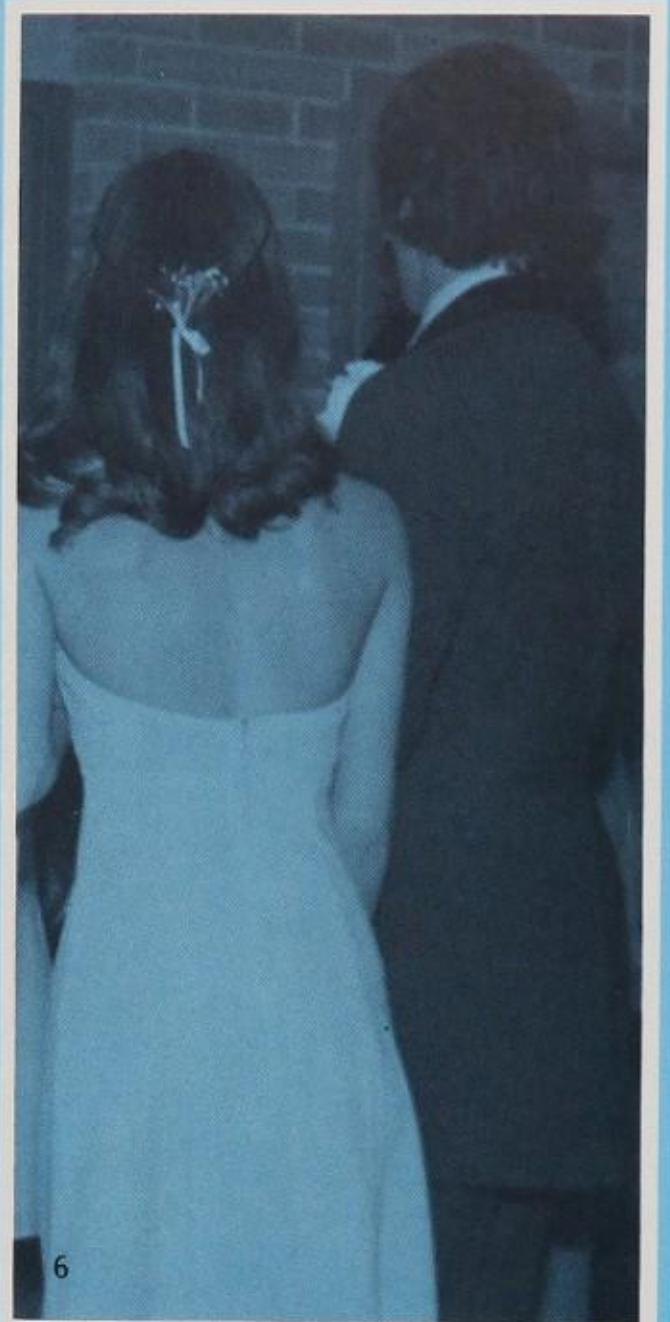

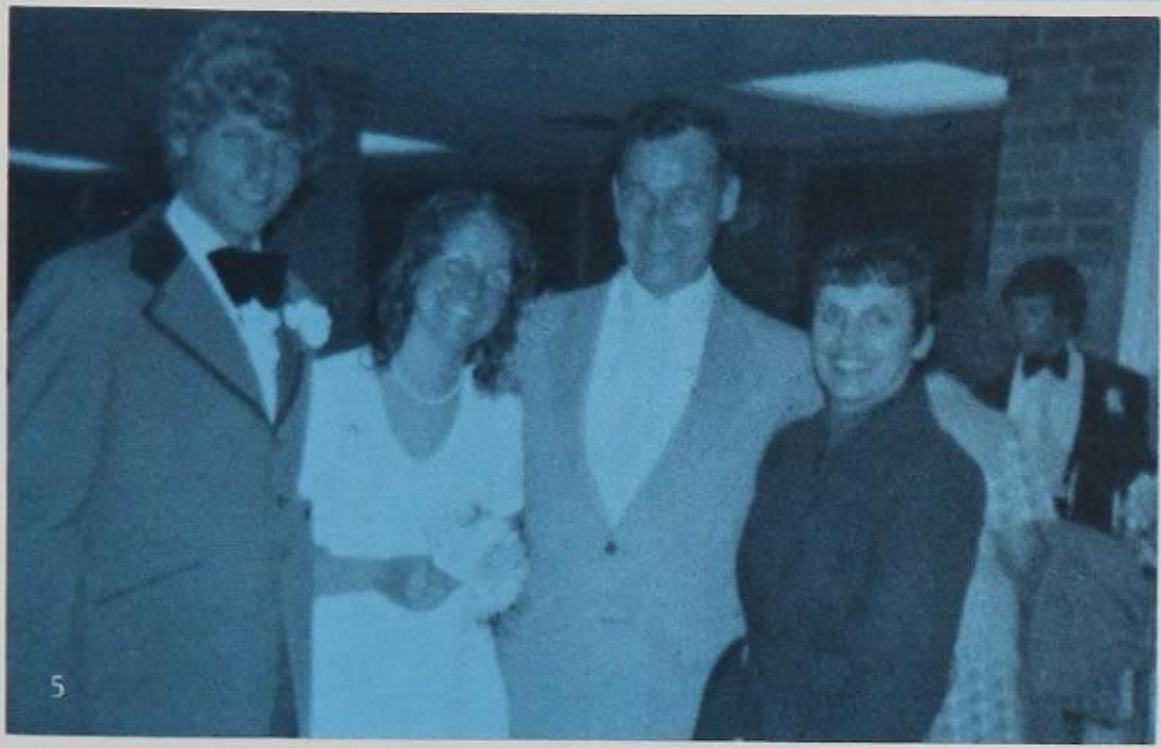

1. Gina Spaay and Mark Schoenrock stopped in the lobby after the Grand March to talk with friends and parents. 2. Kurt Miller and Cheryl Mochalski walked through the gazebo on their way to ascend the stairway upon which they will be crowned. 3. The 1973 Prom Court waited for this year's king and queen to come to the top of the stairway, as the cameras flashed. 4. The band, Gregory James, played for the evening against a background of silver stars. Its wide range of musical ability was appreciated. 5. King at last! Last year's king, Tom Morke, crowned Kurt as he was pronounced king of the 1973 Prom.

... And
Makes Me
Wonder

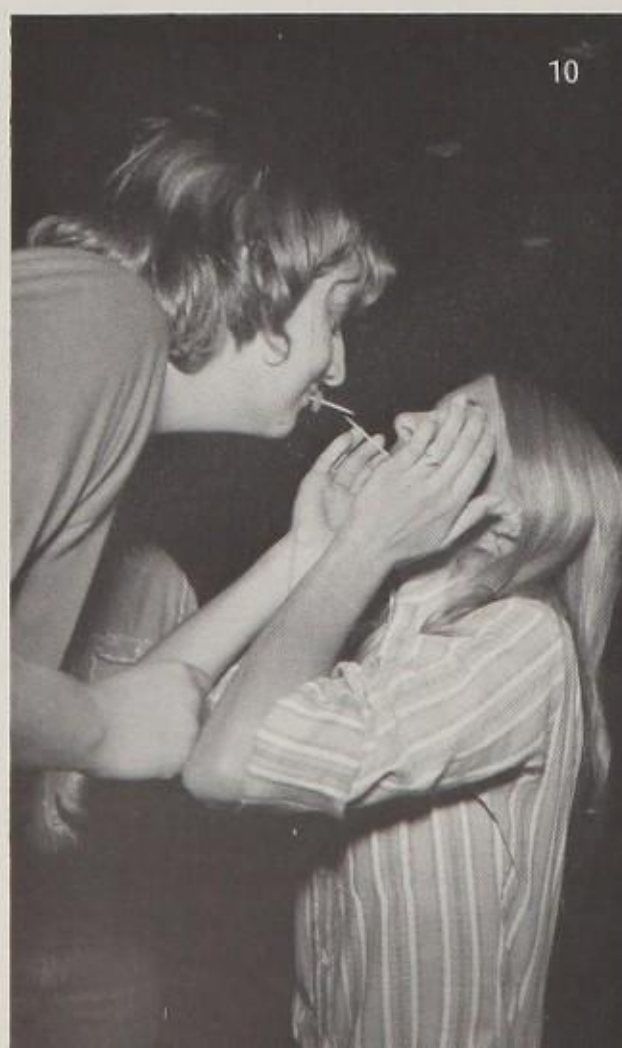

1. Streamers across the top of the gazebo and live greenery beneath, gave the prom a natural atmosphere. The flowing fountain and rich, velvet chairs, donated by members of the Junior class, posed a pretty place for couples to sit and talk. 2. The king and queen, Kurt Miller and Cheryl Mochalski, led the Grand March to the auditorium. 3. Two couples watched as the king and queen were crowned during the coronation. 4. Crowds of parents waited for their son or daughter to come up the aisle so they could take pictures. 5. Jane Adams and Tim Styza posed for pictures with Jane's parents in the auditorium lobby. 6. Tori Rand and Tom Morke stopped to talk with their parents about the dance after the Grand March. 7. Kurt and Cheryl reigned as 1973 Prom King and Queen.

Homecoming 1973: "This Is the Year of the Cat"

For the first time in Greendale High School history, Homecoming was a successful, week-long adventure. Spirit week displayed the pep and personality of the classes by having each grade decorate a hall of the school with their color. The sophomores won the hall decorations award, coloring the art and language hall in bright orange.

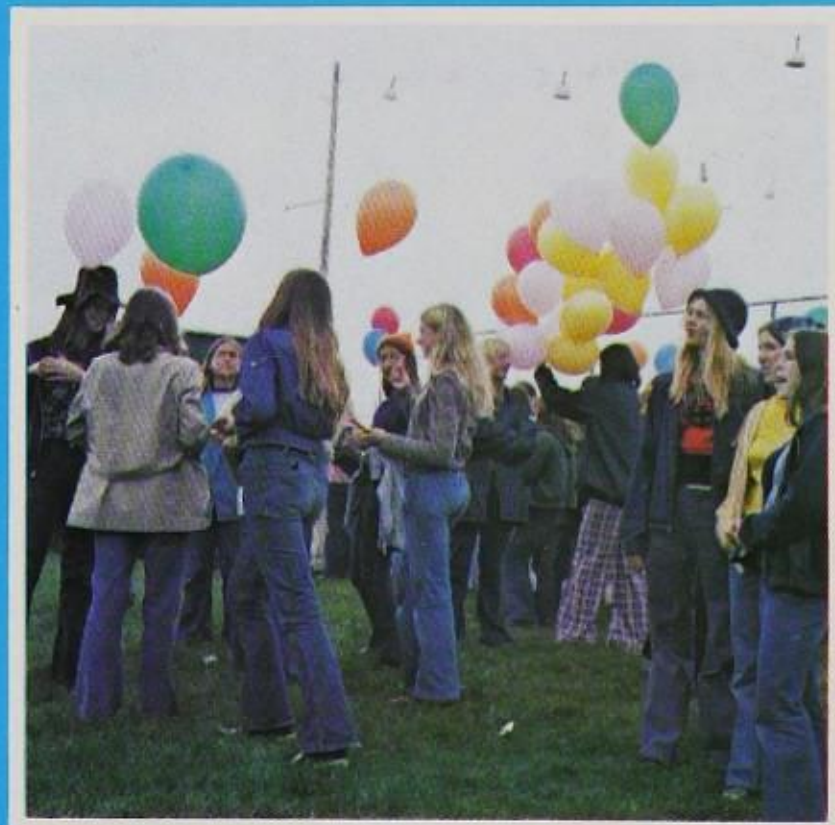

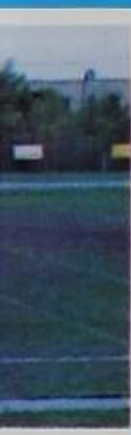

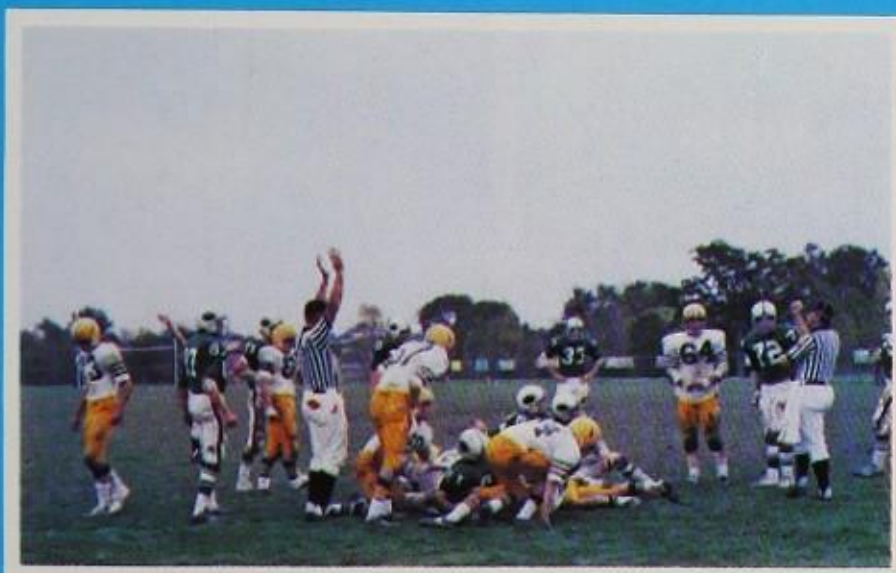

The Friday afternoon pep assembly featured the introduction of the king and queen and the competitive class cheers. Pam Solazo and Dave Broderick were crowned, and reigned over the Pep Rally that night. The skit award went to the sophomores. The highlight of the evening was the tug-of-war, which finalized the juniors as the winners of the Olympic Games. The Court of Honor was introduced and Coach Kostka gave the team and the school one of his invigorating pep talks. The rally was a success. Everyone went home excited for the next day to begin.

1. The 1973 Homecoming King and Queen, Dave Broderick and Pam Solazo, were first announced at the Friday afternoon pep assembly. 2. Coach Wayne Kostka felt that the success of a team depended on the spirit and determination of the crowd at a Homecoming game. 3. The Varsity Football team was instructed to wear the new jerseys and was honored at the Pep Rally. 4. Introductions of the 1973 Court of Honor were hardly heard over the cheering of the crowd. 5. Michelle Vineyard was happily relieved when she busted her balloon in the freshmen-sophomore balloon bust. 6. These juniors peeled their orange to eat it after playing the frozen orange pass. 7. Senior LeeAnn Fagan was one of the OACC members who instructed and judged the Olympic Games. These freshmen really got tangled up in their "stringed-spoon". 8. Dave Broderick and Diane Scherzer started passing the lifesaver for their Senior team. 9. Aud Djorwad had the most perfect aim for being blind-folded. Mike Schell inhaled the banana as she aimed. 10. Senior Marilyn Pranke seemed to be praying that Jeff Gittins wouldn't drop the lifesaver. 11. "Are you ready?" 12. "Go! Go!", Cheri Broderick seemed to be saying. 13. The juniors won the final tug-of-war against the mighty seniors.

OACC Colored It's World in Bright Orange and Brown

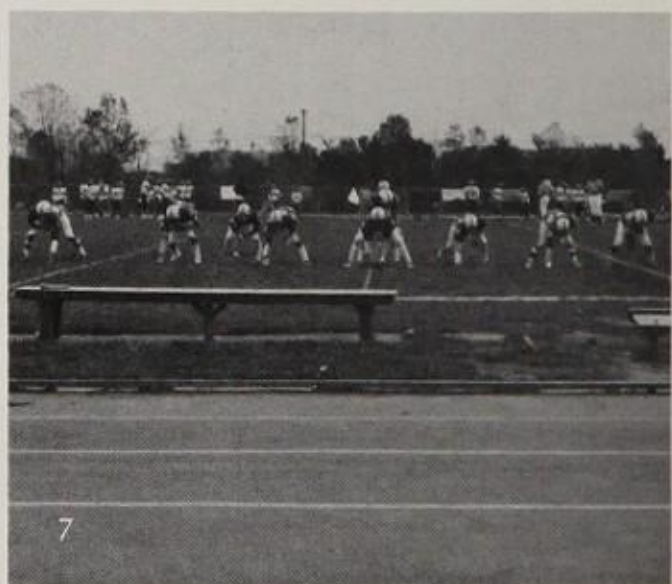

The parade sparked off the Saturday afternoon activities. The Junior float placed first in the float competition. Their slogan was "Colonel Kostka's Kentucky Fried Hawks". A new addition to the parade this year was the Saddle Club.

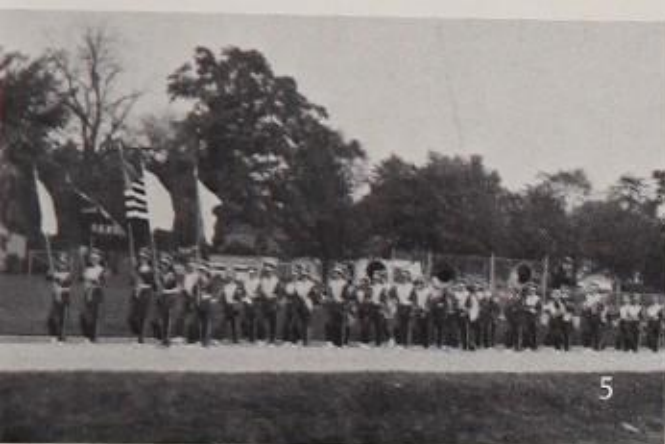

Greendale's tough Panther football team ruled the first half, scoring a single field goal. Half-time activities featured the Homecoming Court and the winning floats. The pom-pom girls and the High School Band also entertained the crowd. The second half went quickly with Greendale holding Greenfield to a scoreless game. The fourth quarter gun went off with a 3-0 win for Greendale.

Couples entered the fall-colored multi-purpose room and danced to the music of South End Rhythm Band that night. The Court was assembled. Dave and Pam were crowned by the 1972 Homecoming King and Queen: Mark Rondinelli and Jenni Niles. They led the next dance to the band playing Chicago's "Color My World". Most of the couples enjoyed dinner after attending the dance.

"We had the most colorful Homecoming Court I have ever seen. The band was great. They played all Chicago hits. OACC deserves alot of credit for planning such a successful week. I was really sad to see the weekend come to an end so fast, though." (Jo Thomson)

1. AFS student Aud Gjorwad, was an honorary Homecoming Court member. 2. Greendale had possession of the ball for the majority of the game on Saturday. 3. The Pep Band played the back-up music for the pom-pom routines at most of the pep assemblies and basketball games. 4. Varsity cheerleaders did the Victory mount to start off the rally cheers. 5. The Greendale High School Band marched proudly in the afternoon parade. 6. The 1973-74 Pom-pom Girl Squad performed at the Pep Rally. 7. The football team drilled to perfection before the game. 8. The mighty Panther remained unknown throughout the majority of the football season. 9. Cheerleaders led the class competition cheers. 10. The South End Rhythm Band played many current songs to the delight of the dance attendants. 11. Sophomores performed their winning skit. 12. The Senior Float truthfully predicted the game results. 13. The Saddle Club was a new addition to the OACC and therefore earned a place in the parade. 14. Teachers and their guests were invited to chaperone and direct the Olympic Games.

1973 Fall Play: Greek Drama, Antigone

The fall play, Antigone, was a classic Greek drama. Originally authored by Sophocles, it was a tragedy concerning a struggle between political forces and moral convictions.

As the story opened, Antigone and her sister, Ismene, daughters of the deposed king, Edipus, were mourning the death of their brother, Polynices. He laid unburied because he plotted against Creon, the present king.

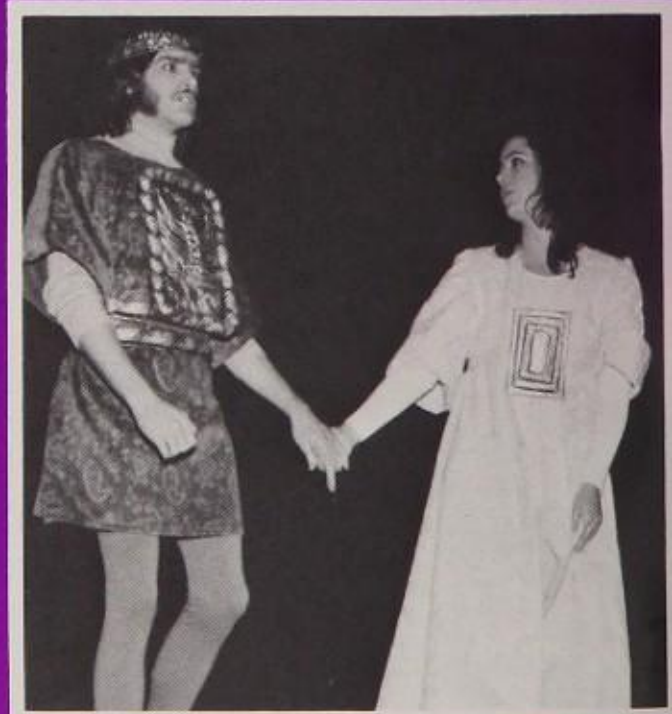

Antigone buried her dead brother's body, against Creon's orders. She was sentenced to be entombed alive in a cave, even though she was the fiancée of Creon's son, Haemon.

The chorus, speaking as Creon's own conscience, tried to convince him to free Antigone. Creon remained firm. However, in the meantime, Antigone hanged herself. Haemon, learning of this, committed suicide. Creon's wife, Eurydice, slit her throat when she learned of the deaths her husband had caused. With three deaths on his conscience, in the true fashion of tyrants, Creon still remained convinced of his righteousness.

Antigone, received an A rating in the Parkland Conference contest, an A rating in the sectional contest, then travelled on to regionals at Lake Geneva, where they received an A and two B's. Because of this B rating, the play could not go on to State, and this ended their production.

1973 Summer Play: Lily, The Felon's Daughter

This Gay 90's melodrama was performed at Humboldt Park. The sets were odds and ends supplied by the cast. Snow in the last scence was shredded paper thrown into Lily's face through an open window, and the "segar" that producer, Tom Allen, smoked was of the lowest quality. In fact, it made him sick on the way to the cast party.

Lily was a fair maiden who had been living with the Fairweathers' in Boston since she was left on their doorstep as an infant. Compton, their son, was a highly spirited young lad who worked in a friend's store and betted on horses. Lilly and Compton were in love. Compton's gambling hobby put him into debt, forcing him to leave home with Lord Montmorency. They discovered gold in Alaska, and sent home money through Craven Sinclair, the fiend, who confiscated it for himself. Compton's and Lord Montmorency's grand homecoming was saddened when they found Betsy Fairweather, his mother, dying of a broken heart, high-classed Miss Ophelia working for the Red Cross, and the family's high social status reduced to that of Robin Steel, Lily's real father, a felon. Craven Sinclair was finally caught and good triumphed over evil. Compton married Lily, Lord Montmorency married his true love, Miss Ophelia, and the Fairweathers' and Robin Steel lived happily on Compton's newfound riches.

1. Juli Kay as Marie, the maid, cried out at Kerry Hayes as Craven Sinclair, the bad guy who kept her from her house work. 2. Compton, as handsome as a greek god, played by Jeff Mitchell upset his true-as-blue father Jonas Fairweather played by Mike Treske. 3. "Want to buy a little dorg?" asked Robin Steel (Lily's true father) after breaking into the Fairweather home as played Fritz Loudenslager. 4. Producer and Curtain, Tom Allen displayed his feelings to the crowd when Craven Sinclair made his presence known (notice the cheap segar). 5. Lying on the floor after not hearing from her son Compton, Betsy Fairweather played by Karen Kovacic, dies of a broken heart. 6. Miss Ophelia, played by Jane Kaczmarek, took great pleasure in confusing her suitor Lord Montomrency played by Paul Weir. 7. Tom Allen tells the audience the play is through as the happy couples of Compton and Lilly, and money bags Montmorency and Miss Ophelia smile on. Pictures donated by Robert K. Johnson.

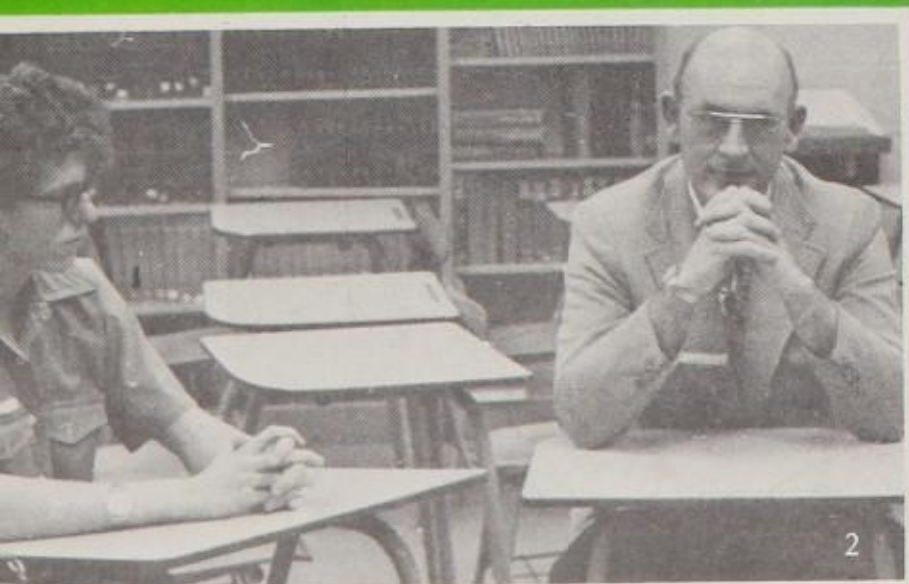

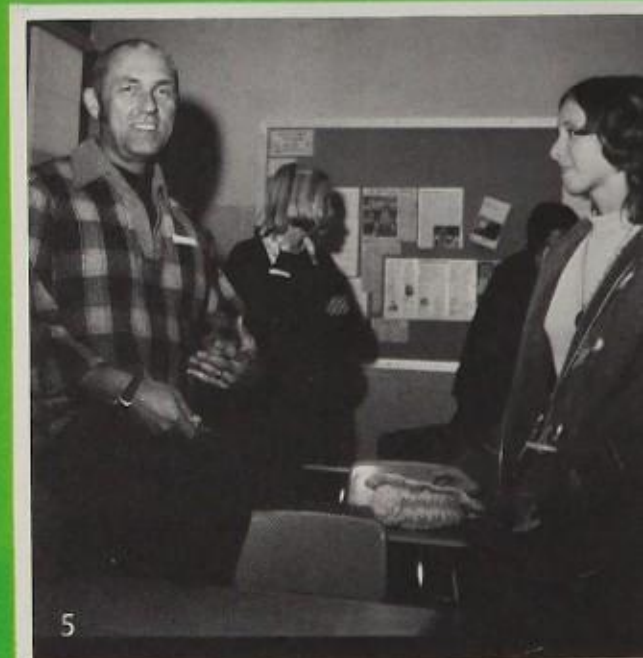

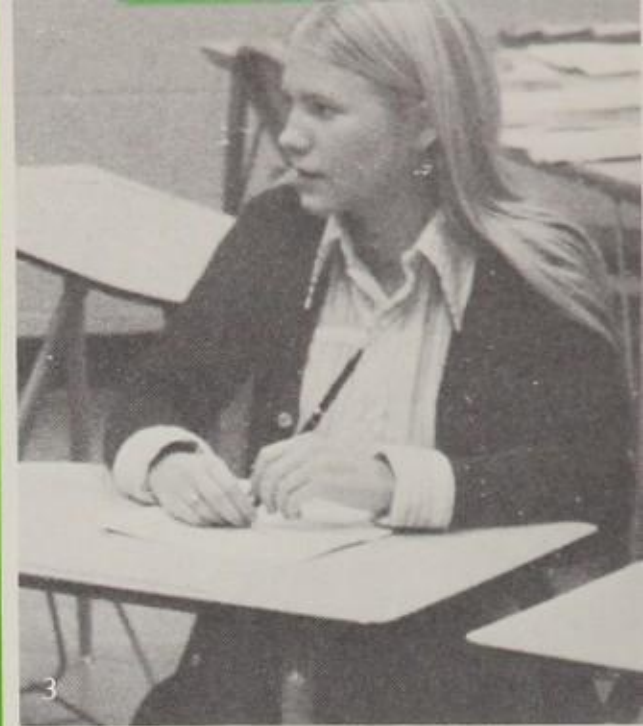

OACC Activity: Boundary Breaking

Boundary Breaking, held in October, presented opportunity for students, faculty, administration, and the community to get together to discuss and to "break the boundaries" between themselves. It was organized by the Organizational Activities Co-ordinating Committee, OACC, and the guidance department at the high school.

Members of the OACC were selected as group leaders. In small groups of about twelve people, a group leader asked prepared questions, which everyone answered without explanation. This gave everyone a chance to get to know how others in their group felt about political, social, and humanitarian aspects of life today.

Out of the 160 people involved, a special guest was honored. That guest was Yayoi Iwa Saki, the AFS student from Japan, who studied at Greendale High School during the 1969-70 term.

1. A freshman, sophomore, junior and senior, along with a couple of adults were scheduled into each group to guarantee adversity. 2. Senior Scott Bohle listened while Dr. Knapp contemplated his answer. 3. Senior OACC member, Joni Reiman, was one of the group leaders that kept order and repeated each answer so everyone would hear. 4. Afterwards, Boundary Breaking participators discussed their answers over punch and cookies. 5. Mr. Eugene Bahr explained his reasoning to junior, Cindi Bauer. 6. Juniors met in the auditorium lobby after to relate their answers to certain questions openly to each other.

WITI — TV 6

"Who Knows"

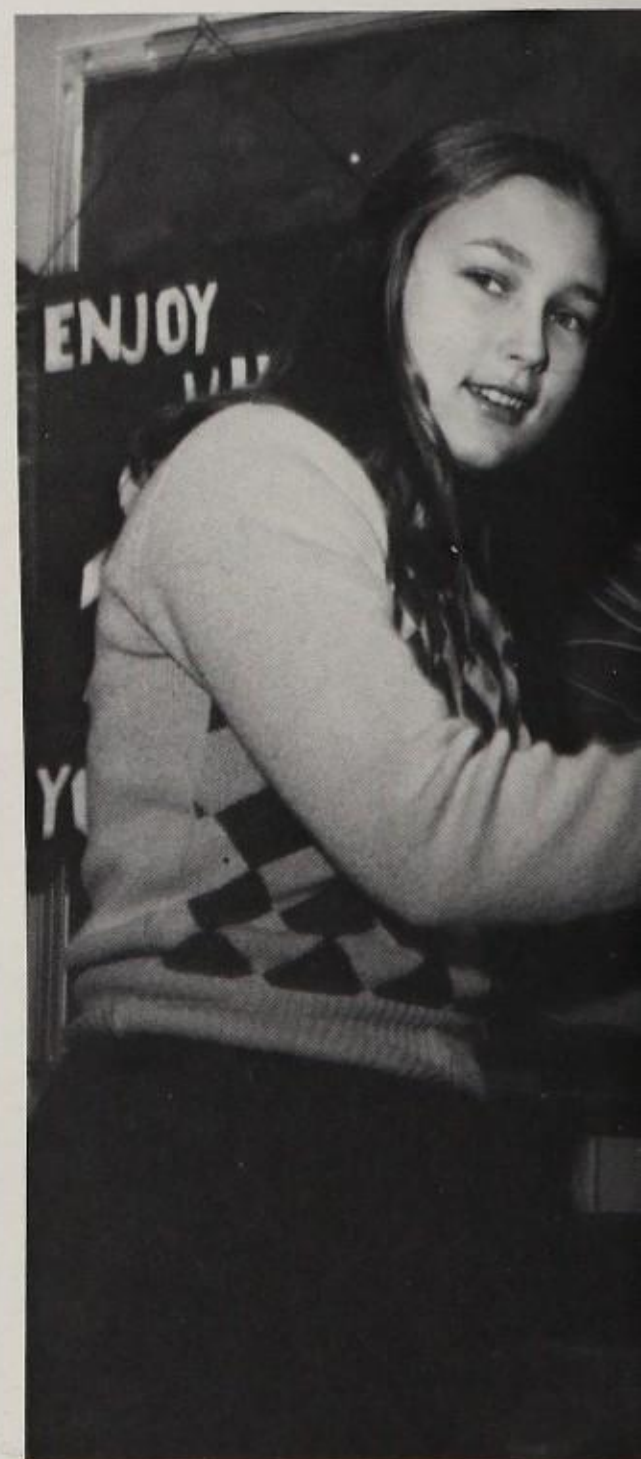

"Who Knows" is a quiz program that matches the knowledge, intelligence, and speed of two teams of high school students. In the first round of "Who Knows" Greendale defeated Divine Savior-Holy Angels High School. By winning, GHS advanced to the quarter finals and defeated Homestead High School of Mequon. In the semifinals Greendale beat Wauwatosa West, putting them in the finals with Fort Atkinson. The Greendale team lost a close match in the finals, taking a second place. Representing Greendale High School were Phil Jacoby, Jerry Noeske, Bob Ethier, and alternate Scott Bohle.

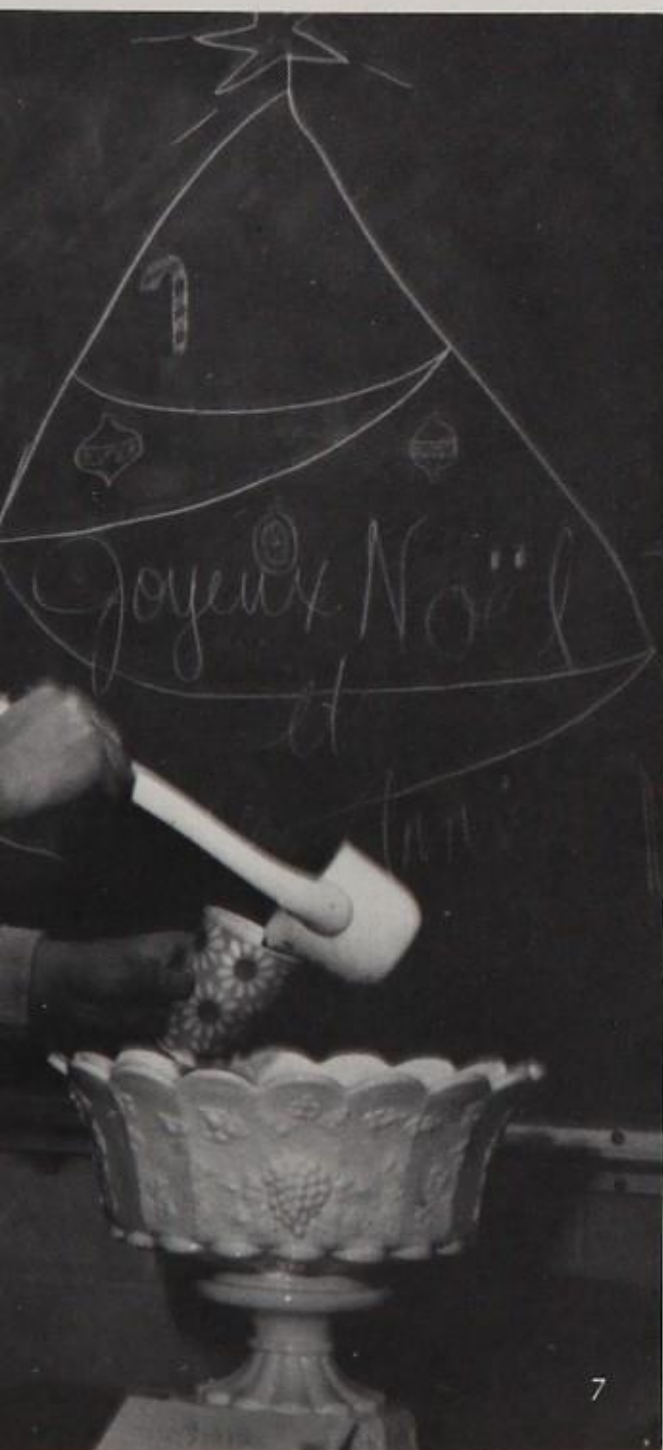

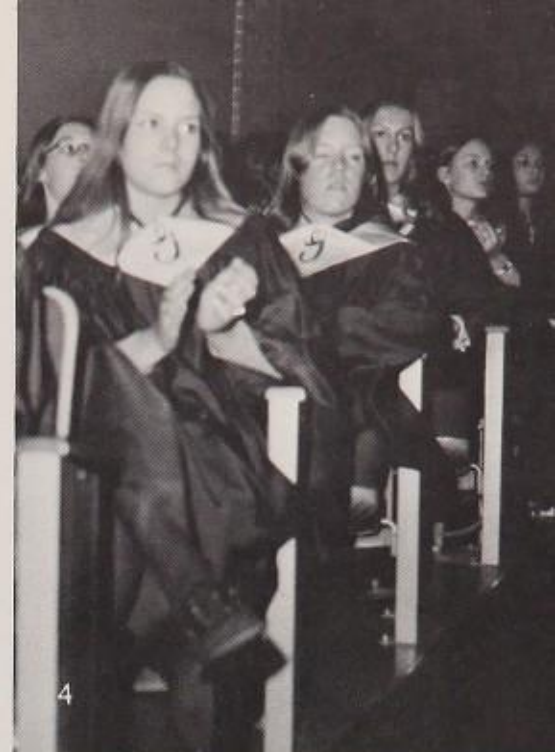

1. Channel 6's very own Tony Carr asked the challenging questions on the show, and gave pep talks to the studio audience. 2. Waiting in the TV 6 lobby before going into Studio B. 3. Jerry, Phil, and Bob sat "on stage" ready for the first round to begin. 4. In the lobby the boys looked much more relaxed, as they sat and received good luck wishes from their friends.

Many Expressions of Christmas At Greendale

The week before Christmas was filled with traditional happenings that highlighted the season. Santa Claus and his helpers paraded the halls of the village schools, passing out candy to all of the smaller boys and girls. The Foreign Language Department expanded its Cultural Exchange Day to emphasize foreign foods and customs. Many talented students participated in the Music Department's annual Christmas Concert, the week's final event. Cheryl Mochalski, SFA president, opened up this program with a peace message. Thereafter, Mr. Rudolf Uhlig took over, directing the Senior Band in a medley of well-known Christmas carols. The Jazz/Rock Ensemble made its first appearance, playing many of Chicago's hits. The Swing Choir sang select songs from the Godspell soundtrack, and accompanied AFS student, Aud Gjorwad, in her dance routine. A similar program was performed for the public and was highlighted by the appearance of the Concert Choir in their formal gowns.

1. Cheryl Mochalski, SFA president, delivered the traditional Christmas message. 2. Aud Gjorwad was a very talented dancer. 3. Senior Bob Orlowski played Santa Claus-for-the-day. 4. Concert Choir awaited their appearance during the night performance. 5. The Jazz/Rock Ensemble delighted all ages in the audience. 6. This Christmas wreath decoration was made by the Art Department. 7. Aud Gjorwad tried a glass of cool French punch. 8. The Senior Band's long practices paid off: their performance was beautiful. 9. Nina Monahan, girls' choir director, gave last minute instructions to the sophomores before the Christmas Concert.

Spring Musical: "The Apple Tree"

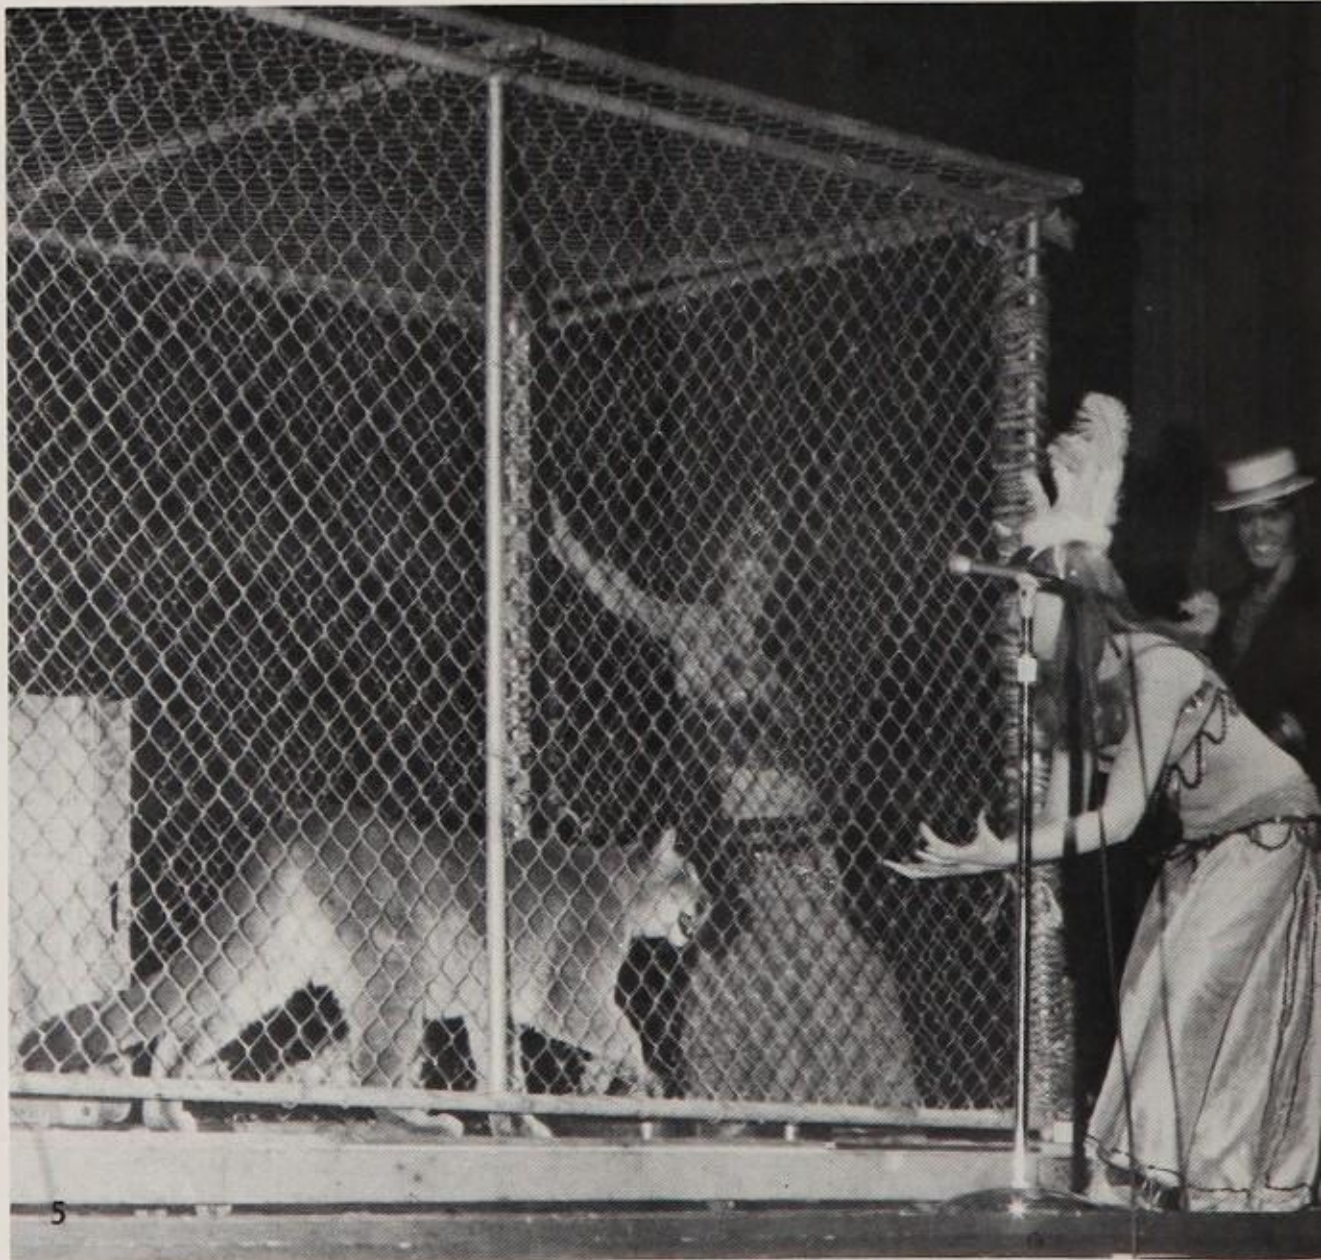

The Apple Tree was a musical trilogy featuring three plays: "Adam and Eve", "The Lady or the Tiger?" and "Passionella". The three segments were related by the themes of knowledge and love.

In the first play, Eve was tempted by the snake to eat the forbidden fruit. Because of her decision to do so, she and Adam were banished from Eden. The play follows the story in the Bible.

Knowledge and love are the sources of temptation in Frank Stockton's "The Lady or the Tiger?". The princess' knowledge of what is behind each door drives her to decide whether to let her lover die, or to let him marry her rival.

Concluding the trio of plays was "Passionella". In it, Ella, a chimney sweep, desired to be a gorgeous movie star. The knowledge that she had lost touch with the real people through her part-time transformation made her unhappy, so she changed her image. Winning the love of her idol, they married and were both surprisingly transformed back to their true selves, which they liked better anyways and lived happily ever afterwards.

1. The Balladeer sang out "I'll Tell You a Truth" as the second play began. 2. Adam and Eve were played by juniors Mike Treske and Julie Nowak. 3. Adam's reaction to hot was quite apparent. 4. Eve mothered Cain after she and Adam built their hut outside Eden. 5. The famous mountain lion that played the tiger in "The Lady or the Tiger?" was lent to the Music Department by the Menominee Falls Ranch Rehabilitation Service. Here Barbera sings "Tiger, Tiger". 6. Adam often hid from Eve when she first came to Eden. Here she was ready to throw stones at him if he didn't put the fish, which Adam called a swimmer, back into the stream. 7. Eve tried so hard to express her happy feelings to the audience through her song "Here in Eden".

1. The king is unimpressed with the entertainment provided for him. 2. Barbera seemed bored with the regular courtroom procedures. 3. "Oh, to be a movie star", thought Ella. 4. Ella screamed as her fairy godmother addressed her. 5. An instantly granted wish: Ella became Passionella. 6. Princess Barbera met secretly with Sanjar. 7. The tiger-keeper prepared to tell "her Proudness" which door housed the tiger. 8. Julie Marszalkowski, the tiger, danced then attacked the prisoner. 9. Passionella and love at first sight. 10. Flip sang about the "real people". 11. Cheryl Mochalski, the Lady, made her way to the doors. 12. A tense moment approached as Sanjar decided which door to choose. 13. Passionella's fame was acknowledged in Hollywood. 14. Passionella fainted as Flip asked for her hand in marriage. 15. Ella's and George L. Brown's true identities were revealed and they lived happily ever after.

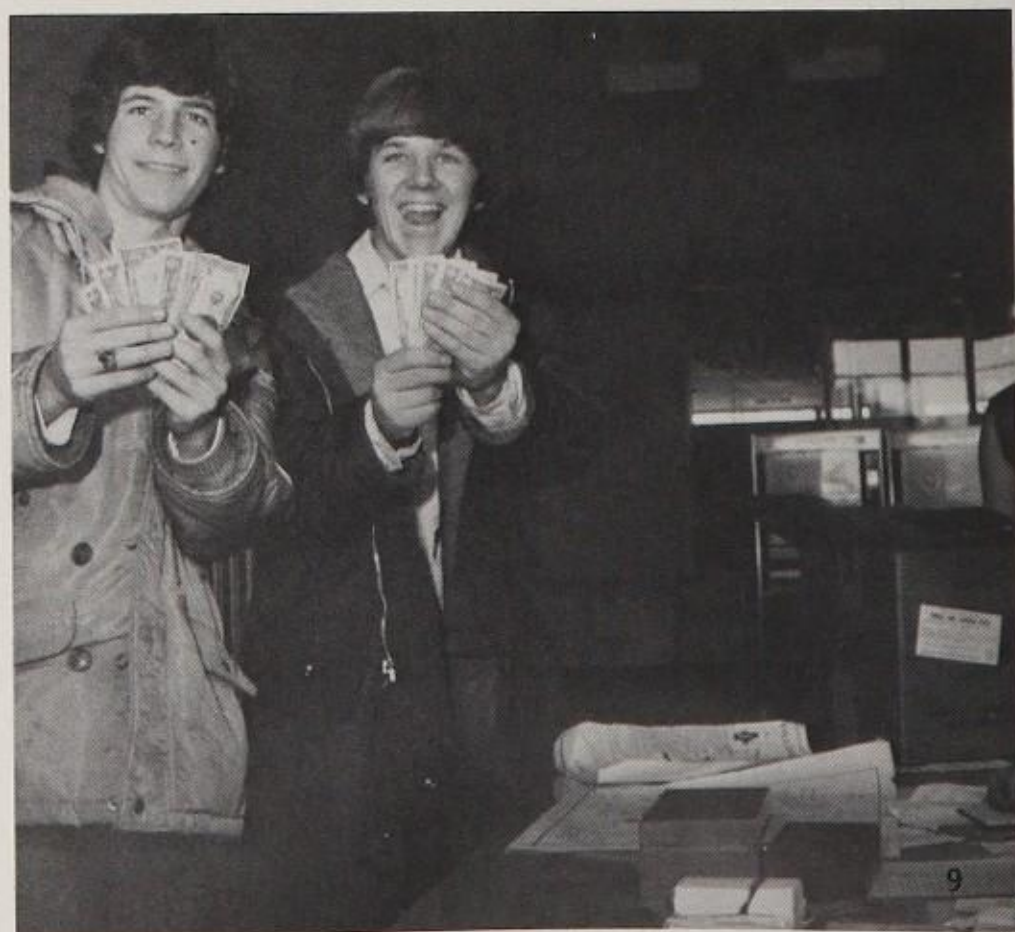

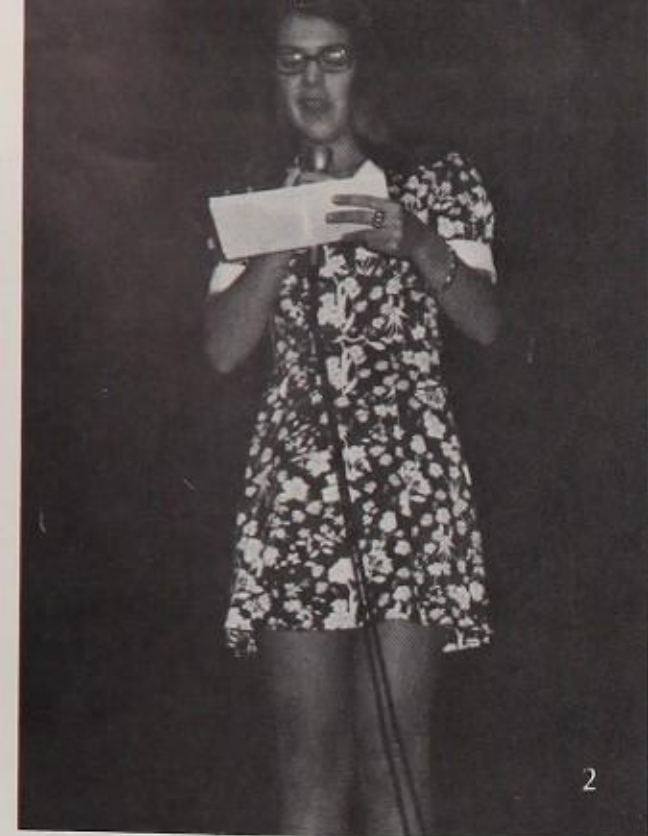

AFS Pizza Sale, Talent Show

The American Field Service is one cause that Greendale students seemed willing to support this year. The AFS Pizza Sale, scheduled for two weekends, November 9 and 10 and December 1, raised money in a thorough village-wide sale. The pizzas were brought to the school in trucks and International Club members distributed them. The AFS fund was completed at the Talent Show on Valentine's Day. While there were singers, dancers, prose readers, and twirlers in the competition, teachers and students performed comedy routines non-competitively. First place and $50 went to Julie Marszalkowski, second place and $25 went to Colleen McKenney, Marianne Havas won $10 for her piano solo, and Charlene Nyren took fourth for her speech.

1. A yummy AFS pizza with cheese and sausage delivered to your door. 2. Leanne Boris, International Club president, announced the winner of the Talent Show. 3. Colleen McKenney spun her rifle with skill and speed to win a second place. 4. After playing a piano selection, Jill Andrae sang "People". 5. Who could say it better? This sign caught the attention of passersby. 6. This was a familiar sight to any Greendale resident for a week before the sale. 7. Remember "Allerest and her Contacts", the senior girls' non-competitive song and dance routine? 8. Aud Gjorwad, Greendale's AFS student, played a Norwegian piano solo, and displayed her vocal talents. 9. Tom Allen and Mike Treske were super salesmen, and they had the dough to prove it! 10. These teachers felt it was time for a little rock and roll. Don't you recognize them? That's Larry Pflieger, Jon Fischer, Bill Schaller and Joe Peck. 11. Julie Marszalkowski danced her way to a first place with a selection from "Swan Lake".

OACC Blood Drive

As their December project, the OACC sponsored a blood drive. Their slogan was: "This Christmas — Give Life". Committee members worked at recruiting students and teachers to donate blood. The Milwaukee Blood Bank drove their truck right up to the auditorium doors, unloaded their equipment, and when the staff arrived, the blood drive came into existence.

Each prospective donor was screened by a nurse — and only the healthiest specimens were accepted. Afterwards, the participants were invited to rest and retain their strength while having punch and cookies.

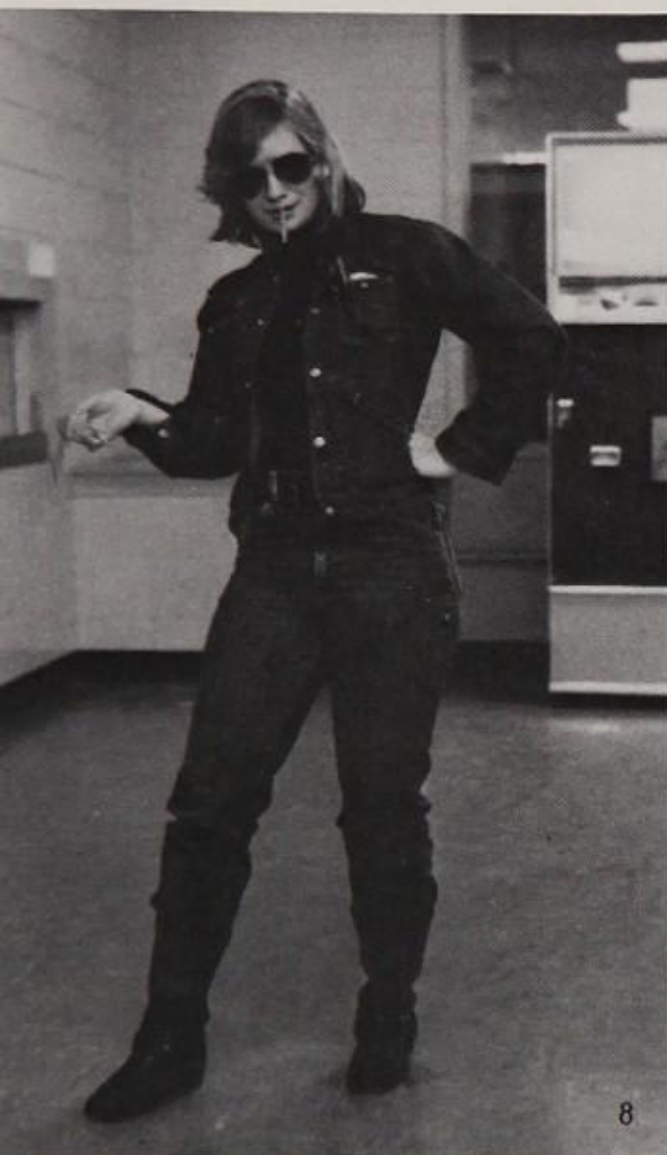

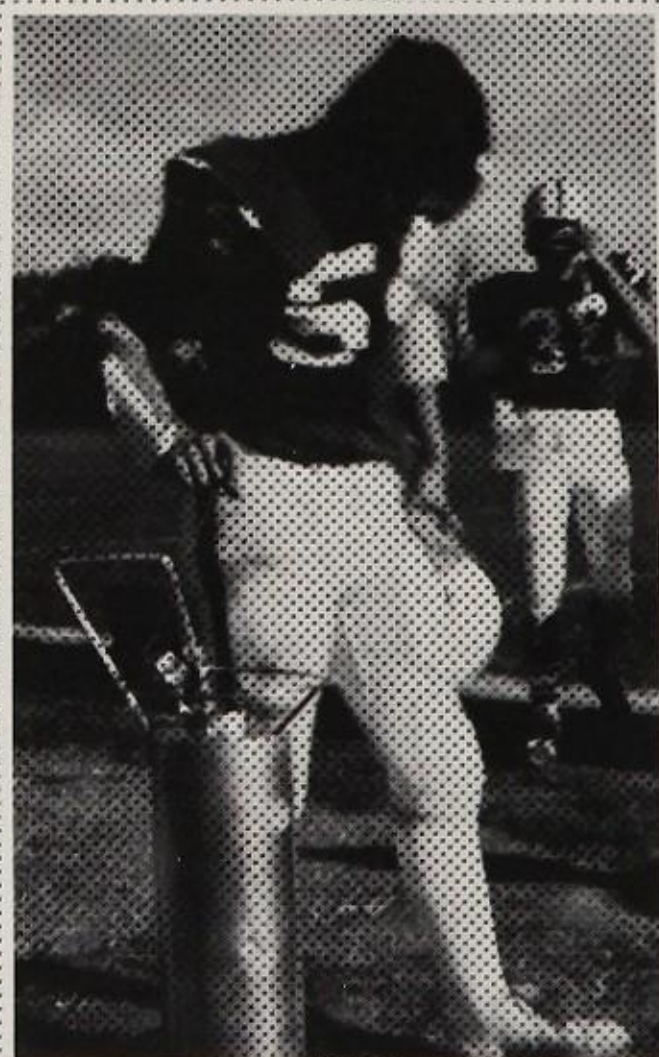

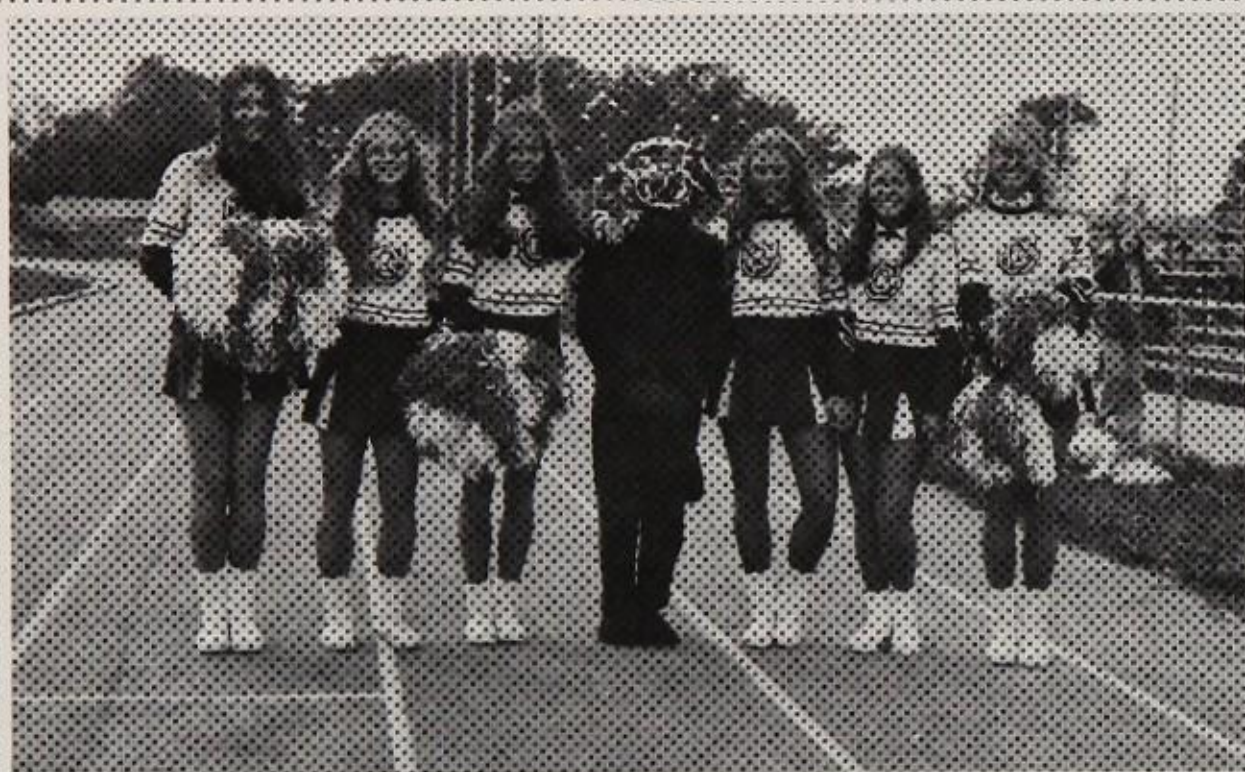

Fifties Day Nostalgia At GHS

Every so often an event "just happens" at GHS. Over the lunch hour a normal March Friday was spontaneously transformed into a Fifties Day. A chance for the students to recall the era of the greaser, when red lips and bobbi socks were in.

Another Fifties Day was scheduled for the day of the Letterman-Faculty game, when jitterbug lessons would be offered in preparation for the post-game Junior class-sponsored sock hop.

1. Rich Barth and Mike Schell proudly displayed their scars. 2. Linda Mendini and Karen Zamis gave out donor cards during the week before the drive. 3. Sue Zantotelli watched the nurse very carefully. 4. You must be 100% healthy to give blood — and Kathy Kruczynski and Trudy Kenny were. 5. Miss Diane Thieme talked with the nurses as she gave blood. 6. Dan Gehling was just one thing to say to those #@/) hip-pies: "rock 'n roll is here to stay." 7. GHS' own 'Mamas and the Papas'. 8. Terri Moore struck a feminine pose. 9. 50's enthusiasts discussed the jitterbug dance. 10. Typical sweethearts at Greendale, Jim Hudson and Lisa Cassini — aren't they sweet?

CHALLENGES

Varsity Football

Coach Wayne Kostka led the Varsity Football team to a 2 win, 5 loss and 1 tie season. Junior Ron Schmidt was selected for the All-Conference team at the end position. Honorable mentions were tackles Greg Blohm (jr.) and Tim Styza (sr.), running backs Tom Reed (jr.) and John Loeding (sr.) and center Dave Rabuck (jr.).

Minor injuries during the major part of the season resulted in fewer points on the scoreboard. But, no matter what the scoreboard showed, the Greendale team on the field could never be matched in its school spirit and determination. When we tied Eisenhower, the other conference teams changed their minds about the Panthers. The Greendale football team seems to have a reputation for surprises, so who knows what next season will bring?

Varsity Harriers Conference Champs

Coach Dan Hackbarth once again led the Varsity Cross Country team to the Conference title. Long, hard practices built up their endurance and turned the harriers into a fine and outstanding group of runners.

The Parkland Conference champions consisted of one senior, four juniors, and one sophomore. Junior Bill Burch placed first, breaking the previous conference record. All but Dave Broderick will be returning next season, so the harriers will be ready with the experience to run well and win again.

Our times this year were better than last year's, but the competition was much better. We had a tough schedule. Midseason injuries really slowed us down. We had a good season, coming on strongest towards the end. (Coach Hackbarth)

The returning lettermen were introduced at the recognition assembly after the team had taken first in conference.

Boys' Varsity Volleyball Team

The Boys' Varsity Volleyball team was plagued with inexperience and tough competition this season. Being the only such team in the Parkland Conference, they were scheduled to play all city and other conference schools. They were relatively less experienced than these other teams and had a lot of trouble playing up to the same potential. As a result, they had a poor winning season. Coach Bainbridge's hopes for next year are brighter, though the team will be losing the height of Paul Cesarz, Mike Schell and Dan Davenport and the quickness of Jim Pospyhalla.

Girls' Varsity Volleyball Team

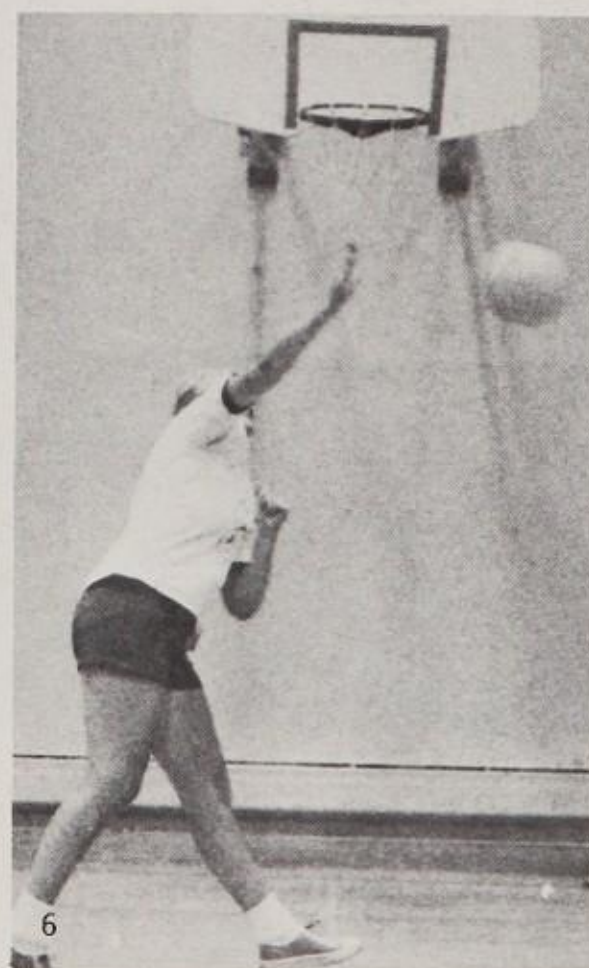

The Girls' Volleyball team was selected on a volunteer basis last fall and ironically had the best season since it began. The team had a new coach this year and their spirit, determination and skill highly improved.

The volleyball team beat every school in the conference with the exception of Franklin. However, they did beat Franklin in Regionals, going on to win that tournament trophy. The team placed in the top fifteen schools in the state. The majority of the team is underclassmen, so Coach Kathy Anklaam's prospects for next year are very promising. They will be losing only three seniors.

1. Craig Baumgardner dives to save an opponent's smash shot. 2. Serving techniques are shown by Mike Schell. 3. Mike, Jim Pospyhalla and Craig go over different plays during practice. 4. Janet Koncki, junior, put all her might into this successful spike shot. 5. Mimi Marcich shows good form in her follow-through. 6. Diane Scherzer practices her overhand serve.

GIRLS' VOLLEYBALL TEAM — ROW 1: J. Schiek, J. Koncki, M. Marcich. ROW 2: K. Ellingsen, M. Endres, N. Hlavacek, D. Scherzer, B. Stollenwerk, J. Chang. ROW 3: J. Stollenwerk, T. Moynihan, K. Berghs, A. Girls' Varsity Swim Team

The Girls' Swim team acquired two new coaches this year. Coach Diane Thieme and her assistant Dean Russell worked with an exceptionally larger team of forty girls, which is double the size of previous years.

For the first time in the team's history, a conference meet was scheduled and the girls took first. They tied for third in Sectionals, qualifying Debbie Luetzow in diving, Cheryl Heinlein in the 50 and 100 freestyle, and Carol Heinlein in the 200 IM for the state meet. Debbie placed among the top 18 divers, Cheryl placed 7th and 9th respectively, and Carol placed 8th in the 200 IM.

The majority of the team were underclassmen who greatly improved throughout the year. The coaches expect to have a strong team again next year because they are losing only a few seniors.

GIRLS' VARSITY SWIM TEAM — ROW 1: L. Simonson, A. Bauman, C. Mainman. ROW 2: P. Keskey, M. Smith, K. Coughlin, P. McDonald, M. Lemanski. ROW 3: K. Casey, K. Beutler, D. Schmitz, L. Luhm, V. Schilling, K. Snow. TOP ROW: C. Heinlein, L. Ptacek, C. Heinlein, D. Luetzow, C. Coughlin, W. Jaeger.

GIRLS' JUNIOR VARSITY SWIM TEAM — ROW 1: J. Witzcak, D. Dreyer, J. Yenter. ROW 2: B. Waddell, S. Warner, K. Smith, C. Mishich, S. Phillips, K. Fitzgerald. TOP ROW: J. Anderson, N. Bach, J. Holbus, C. Clemens, B. Sell, P. Radaj.

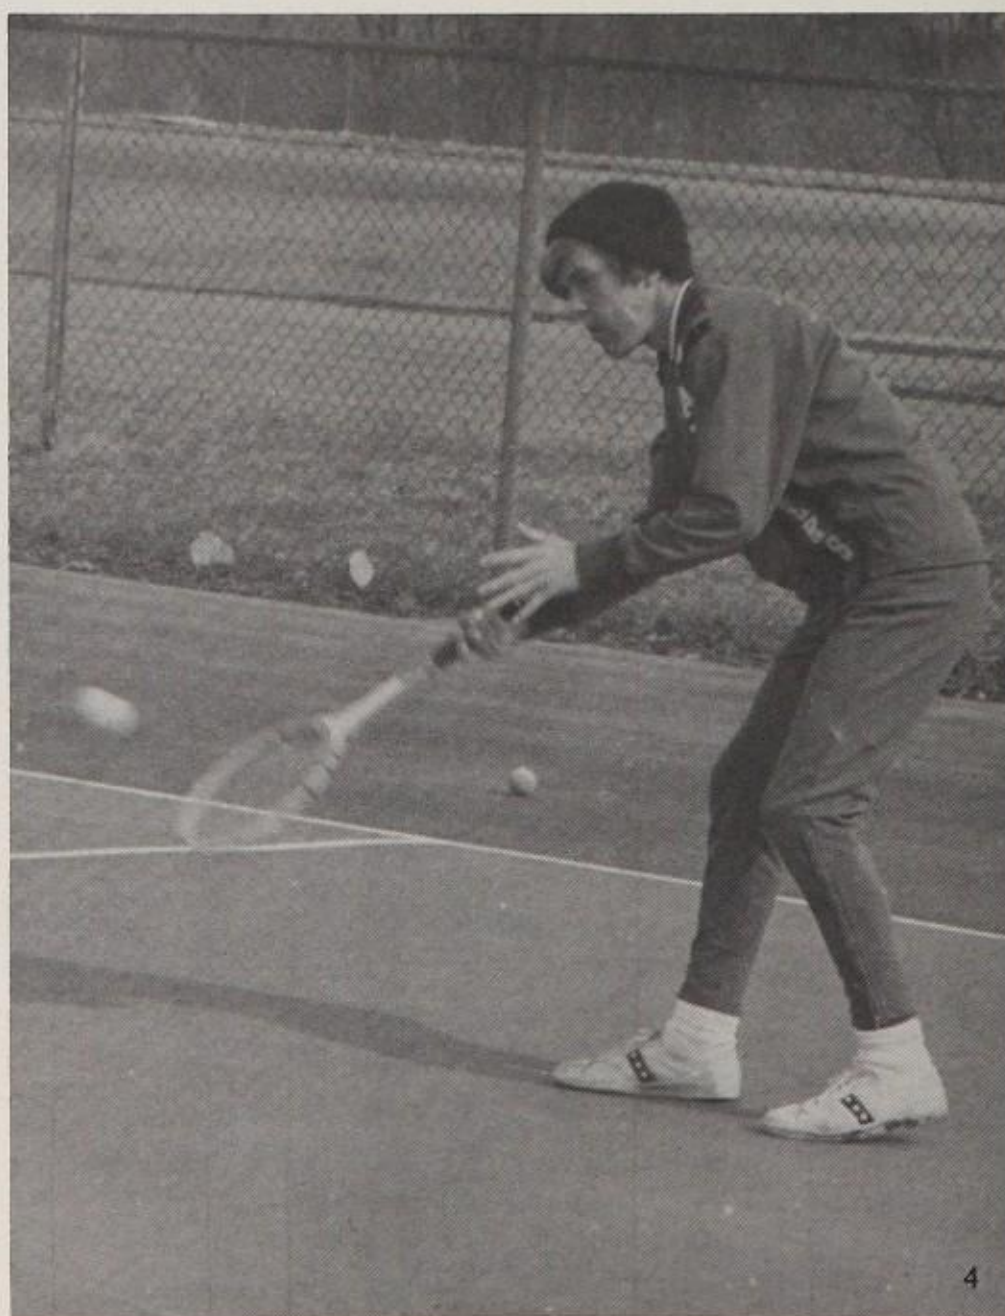

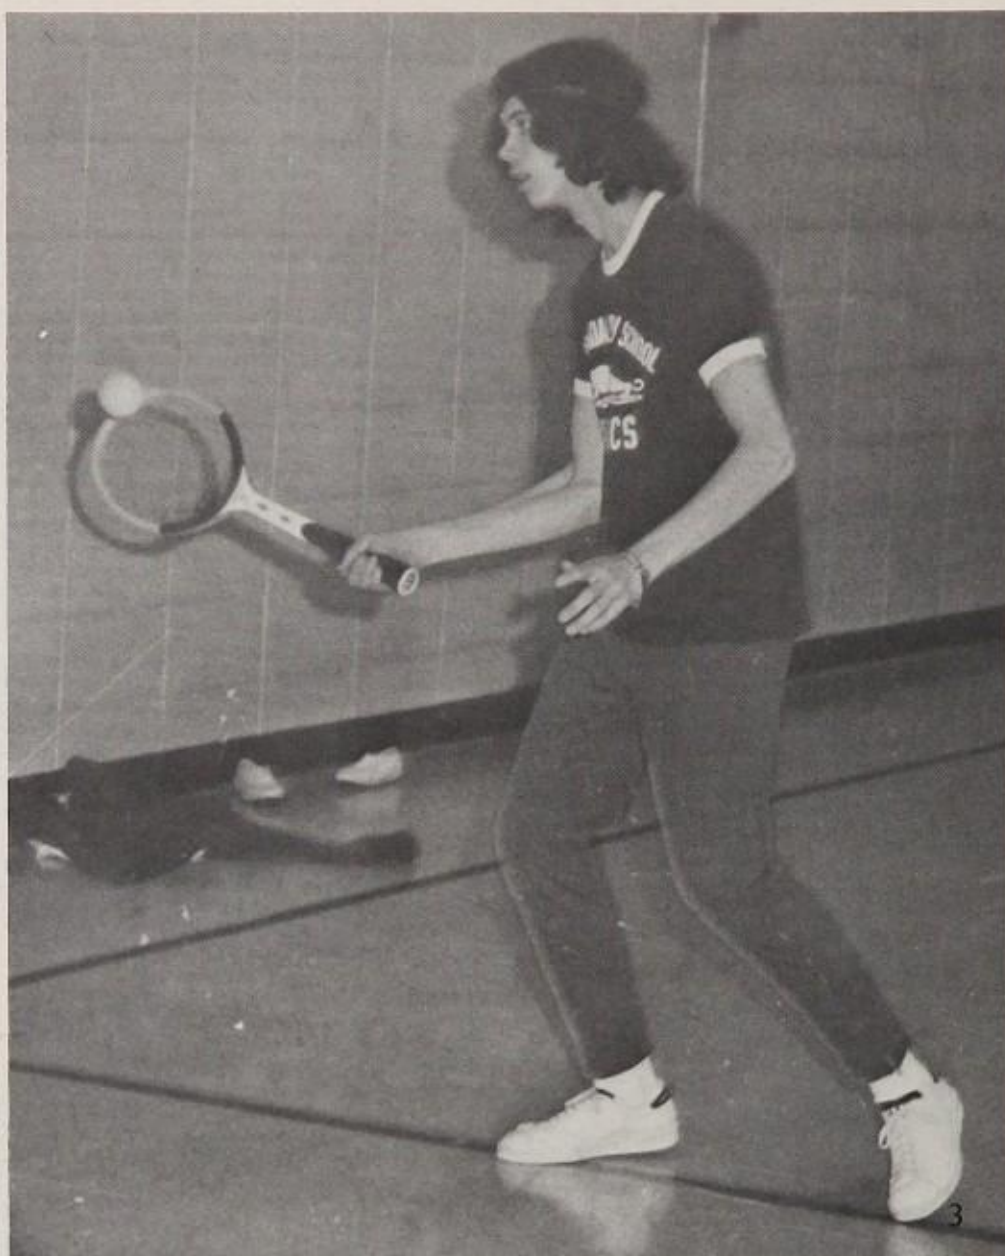

1. and 2. JV swimmers, Julie Yenter and Kay Smith practice starting. 3. Senior Debbie Luetzow placed among the top 18 divers in the state meet. Here she sets her balance for a back dive. 4. Cheryl Heinlein, junior, caught in the air during the conference meet at Greendale. 5. and 6. Kay Smith sprints in to the end of her race. 7. Debbie Luetzow exhibits her fine block stance. She is known to have the most beautiful racing dive on the team.

Boys' Varsity Tennis

The Boys' Tennis team began conditioning for the season early in March with freshmen outnumbering the upperclassmen. The team held elimination playoffs to decide who would play the certain positions on Varsity and Junior Varsity.

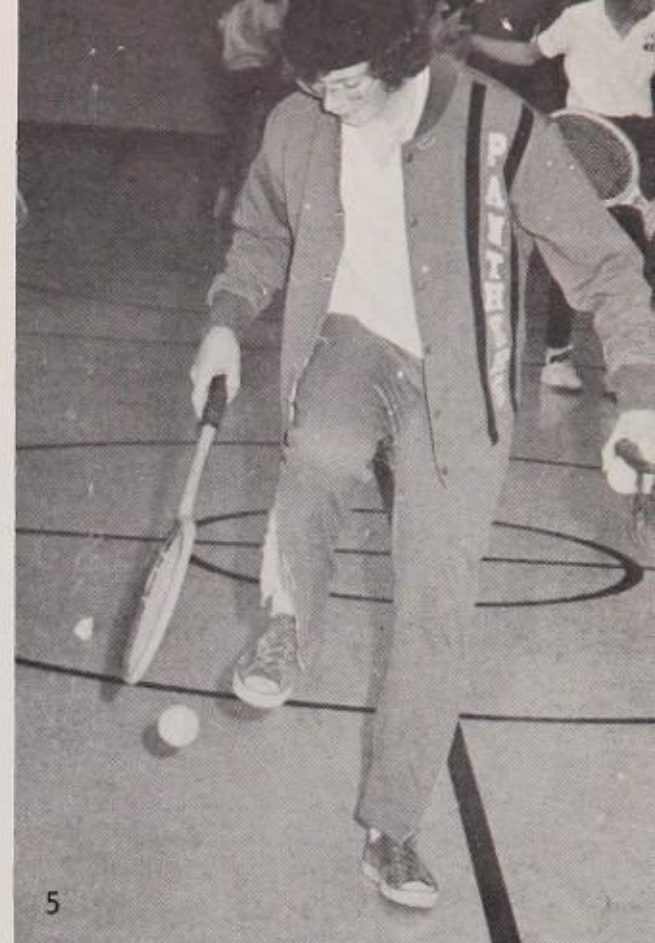

Coach Irv Kamke had the boys practice perfecting their volleying and serving, and left the fancy shooting up to each individual.

This year's returning lettermen were John Kollross, Randy Becker, Bob Yoblin and Rob Rutter. Coach Kamke's many years of experience helped the boys improve their many talents and have a successful season. The team played two non-conference matches against Pulaski and Hamilton high schools before the regular Parkland conference began against Greenfield.

FRESHMAN TENNIS TEAM — ROW 1: D. Amyx, T. Paches, K. Erdman, M. Scheel, K. Miller, R. Waddell, K. Moran. ROW 2: R. Konkol, C. Andrews, J. Larsen, S. Link, D. Sykora, T. Costello, T. Starr, M. Evan. BACK ROW: D. Andersen, D. Battani, R. Hlavacek, D. Bohzhardt, Coach I. Kamke, G. Plitt, B. Mueller, M. Friedel, R. Sobczak.

BOYS' TENNIS TEAM — ROW 1: R. Johnson, B. Moran, B. Tomac, R. Myles, J. Wiczak, R. Schmidt. ROW 2: M. Erdmann, C. Rand, B. Sattell, B. Lembck, D. Erdmann, D. Nicolai, B. Bender, R. Wolff. BACK ROW: K. Erdmann, E. Kraenzler, A. Gerth, J. Bednarek, Coach I. Kamke, R. Becker, B. Yoblin, R. Rutter, T. Frankowski, J. Kollross.

Varsity Wrestling

The wrestling team this year surprised many, considering the amount of talent that left with the graduating class of 1973. But, practice makes perfect — and the wrestlers practiced diligently, learning new moves, perfecting old one, and working on quickness and agility. Each day the team turned up with more layers of clothes on, for cutting weight is second nature to a wrestler.

All the hours of drills, minor injuries, and sweat paid off, for the young team held its own, finishing the season with a 9-3 dual meet record. In the Conference meet Jim Mathias placed first, Mike Dunn and Bill Collins placed second, and Steve Liebherr took a third.

1. Jim Koleski and Kevin Erdmann rested after their warm-up calisthenics. 2. Jim Mathias drove his Eisenhower opponent into the mat. 3. Dave Thomas concentrated on his opponent's actions during the line-up announcements.

1. The team warmed up on the mats before the meet. 2. Last minute advice was given by Coach Carlson. 3. Dave Szibel, 167 senior, had his opponent down on the mat five seconds into the first period. 4. Steve Liebherr, 119 junior, watched his balance as he tried for a two point take down. 5. The coaches practiced mental telepathy on their grapplers. 6. Mike Dunn, 112 sophomore, worked toward two predicament points. 7. The freshman wonder Jim Mathias at 98 lbs, drove into his Greenfield opponent to score the first points of the meet. 8. Bob Morke, 145 junior, turned into his opponent, striving for an escape or a reversal. 9. Freshmen worked on wrestling moves with their coach, John Gould, to gain experience. 10. Bill Collins, 126 senior and captain of the team, sized up Paul Abler of Greenfield, trying to find a way to take him down. 11. Bill Collins rode out his third period of the last home meet against Eisenhower. 12. Senior Rich Longhurst in his pre-meet handshake ... 13. ... riding in his second period ... 14. ... working for the pin ... 15. ... victory and six more points are added to the team score.

Boys' Varsity Swim Team

Coach Dean Russell constructed a very young and talented swim team from the boys interested this year. The team was smaller than usual, but their hard practicing and constant determination prepared them for their successful season. A new coach for the team this year was Tex Frank, who further emphasized the use of the Universal Gym as part of the boys' nightly work-out.

The team placed second in conference, losing the title to Greenfield by two points. The boys went on to place second in sectionals, and to qualify three individuals and one replay for the State meet.

The loss of nine seniors plus an anticipated lack of freshmen going out are two problems facing next year. Consideration of the fact that the team has placed among the top schools at the last four State meets keeps the coaches' spirit and determination up.

Boys' Varsity Basketball

The Varsity Basketball team was small in number and height this year. As a result, the team's rebounding was limited. With a smaller team, though, the offense evolved around playing close to the basket with short jump shots, whereas last year Coach Barbian relied heavily on lay-ups. The team practiced daily to perfect their man to man defense, because actual game play was tough, with the Parkland Conference having a lot of talent this year.

Coach Ron Barbian insisted on building for the future and played a lot of the underclassmen whom he felt had a lot of potential. However, the team stayed together and their determination led them to win a few decisive games.

Freshmen boys practiced diligently to gain experience for next year's varsity team positions.

Girls' Varsity Basketball

Greendale added a girls' basketball team to its Athletic Department this year. Under the coaching of Kathy Anklaam, the girls practiced to perfect skills of a sport they had always wanted to play interscholastically, but had never been given the chance. The team's spirit and determination was not credited to any one player, the girls cheered each other on to a 3 win, 4 loss season record.

Three of the five starters were seniors and the team will lose about one-third of its talent this year. The turnout for tryouts was overwhelming this year and there were many prospective players on the junior varsity back-up squad. This reflects on next year's prospects: it looks good.

GIRLS' VARSITY BASKETBALL TEAM — ROW 1: C. Gerger, B. Stollenwerk, D. Scherzer, C. Belk, N. Burbick, J. Smith, M. Endres. TOP ROW: L. Mendini, K. Zamis, J. Schiek, K. Berghs, P. Simson, Manager G. Cox, Coach K. Anklaam.

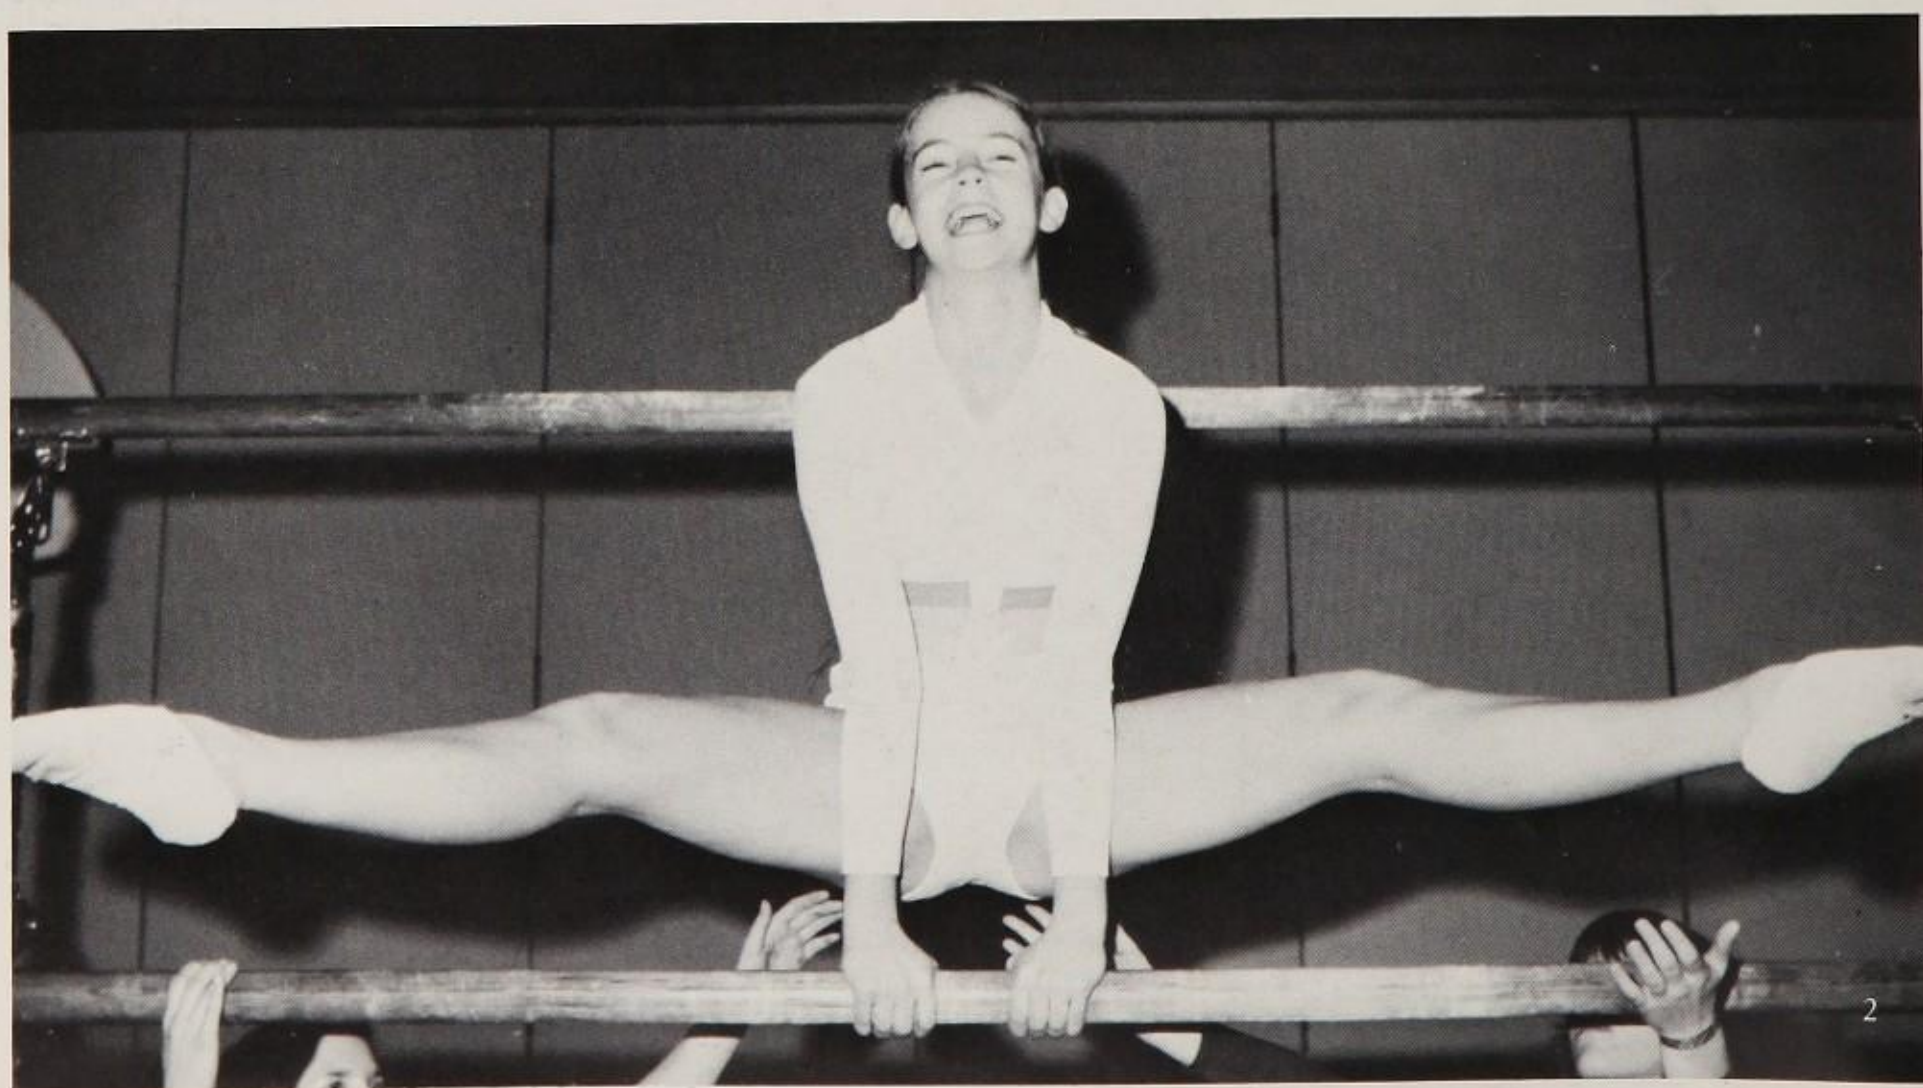

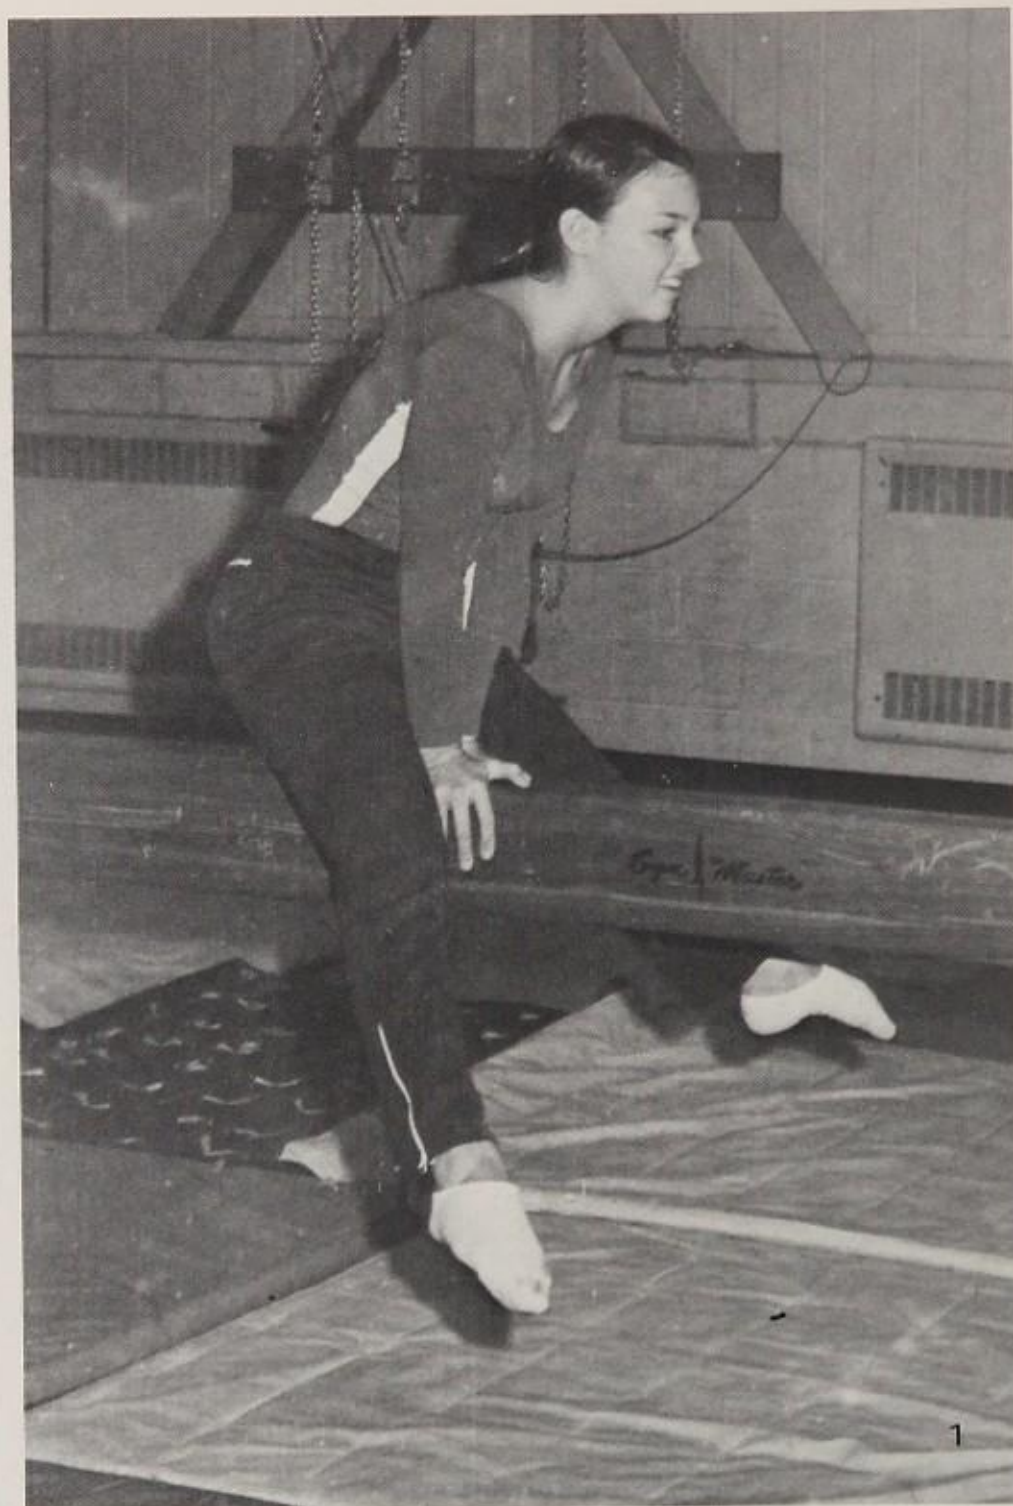

1. Forward Karen Zambis' attempt at a turn-around jump shot was blocked by a Whitnall player. 2. Diane Scherzer's free throw percentage was high and appreciably narrowed their losing gap here. 3. Karen Zambis, Jean Smith, Linda Mendini and Pat Simson practiced lay-ups before the Eisenhower game. 4. Junior Varsity players sat tensely waiting for their game which followed the Varsity match. 5. Cindi Belk, guard, was famous for her quickness and dribbling skills.

Girls' Gymnastics

Gymnastics was initially planned as a coed team, but interested males were few and far between this year. The girls that remained comprised a team that competed against a few Parkland Conference teams and placed first in regionals, sending two girls to state. There, Lisa Gehling placed 21st in the uneven parallel bars, and Wendy Ballas placed 10th in the balance beam. Both girls were freshmen.

The meet consisted of four events: balance beam, uneven parallel bars, vaulting and floor exercise. Each team had four specialists plus one "all-around girl" who performed well in each event. The girls were graded on a scale of 1 to 10 in three categories: execution, composition and difficulty.

Coach Chris Grainger felt that the team's only weakpoint was inexperience this year. The majority of the girls were underclassmen, and the team's success depended on their dedication and determination.

1. Wendy Ballas concentrated on her form and balance during her beam routine. 2. Lisa Gehling practiced on the unevens while Jean Birmingham and Debbie Schilling spotted. 3. Ann Durski perfected her vaulting skills under the direction of Coach Grainger. 4. Barb Nelson sustained a strained calf muscle during the season and had it wrapped prior to practice by Coach Thieme. 5. GIRLS' GYMNASTICS TEAM — ROW 1: L. Gehling, W. Ballas. ROW 2: J. Birmingham, J. Nelson, A. Bauman, D. Schilling. ROW 3: C. Hasenzahl, L. Copeland, V. Schilling, S. Bednarek, D. Luetzow. TOP ROW: A. Durski, M. Bortoluzzi, J. Shecterle.

Boy's Varsity Track

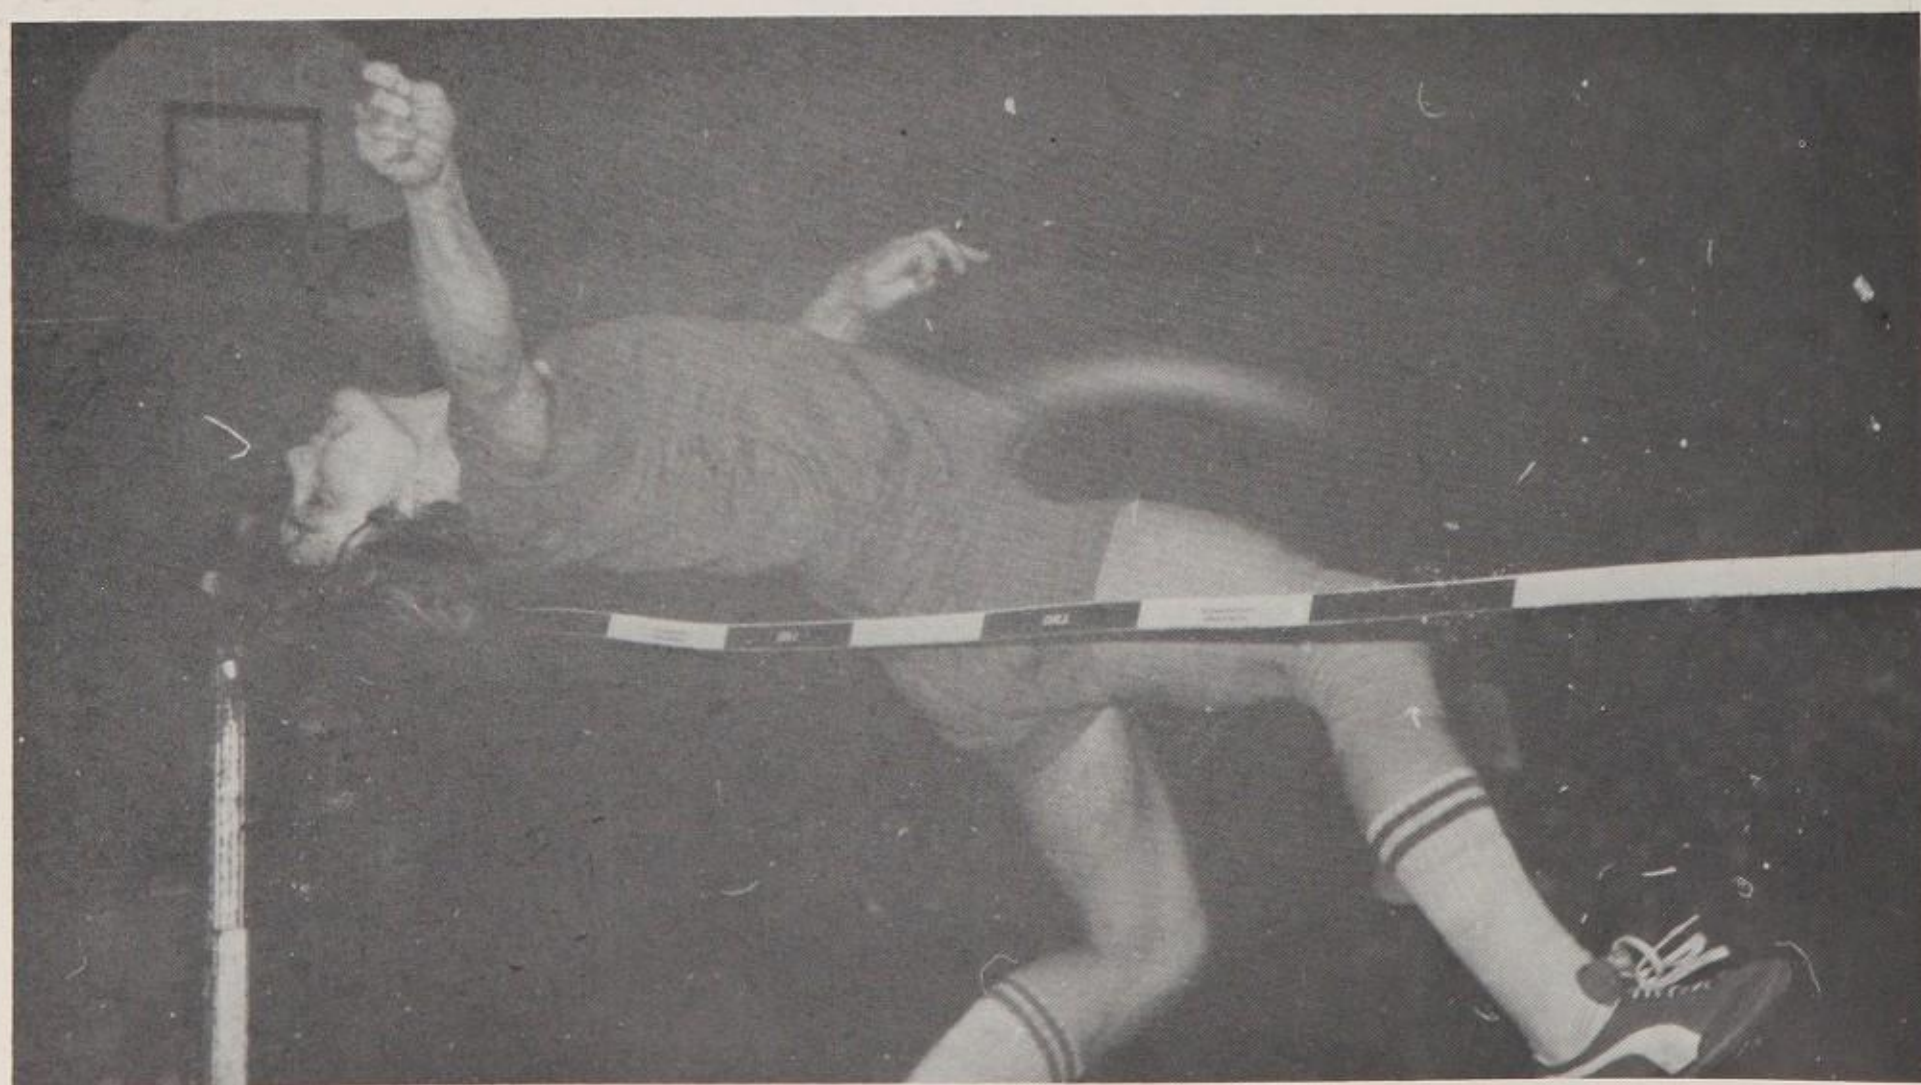

The Boys' Track team attracted over one hundred interested students in the beginning of the season. Five coaches were on hand to help the team prepare for their successful season. Walter Fleming headed the team while Jon Gould worked with 220 and 440, Marty McEathron coached the sprinters and hurdlers, Dan Hackbarth encouraged the distance runners, and Wayne Kostka directed the field events.

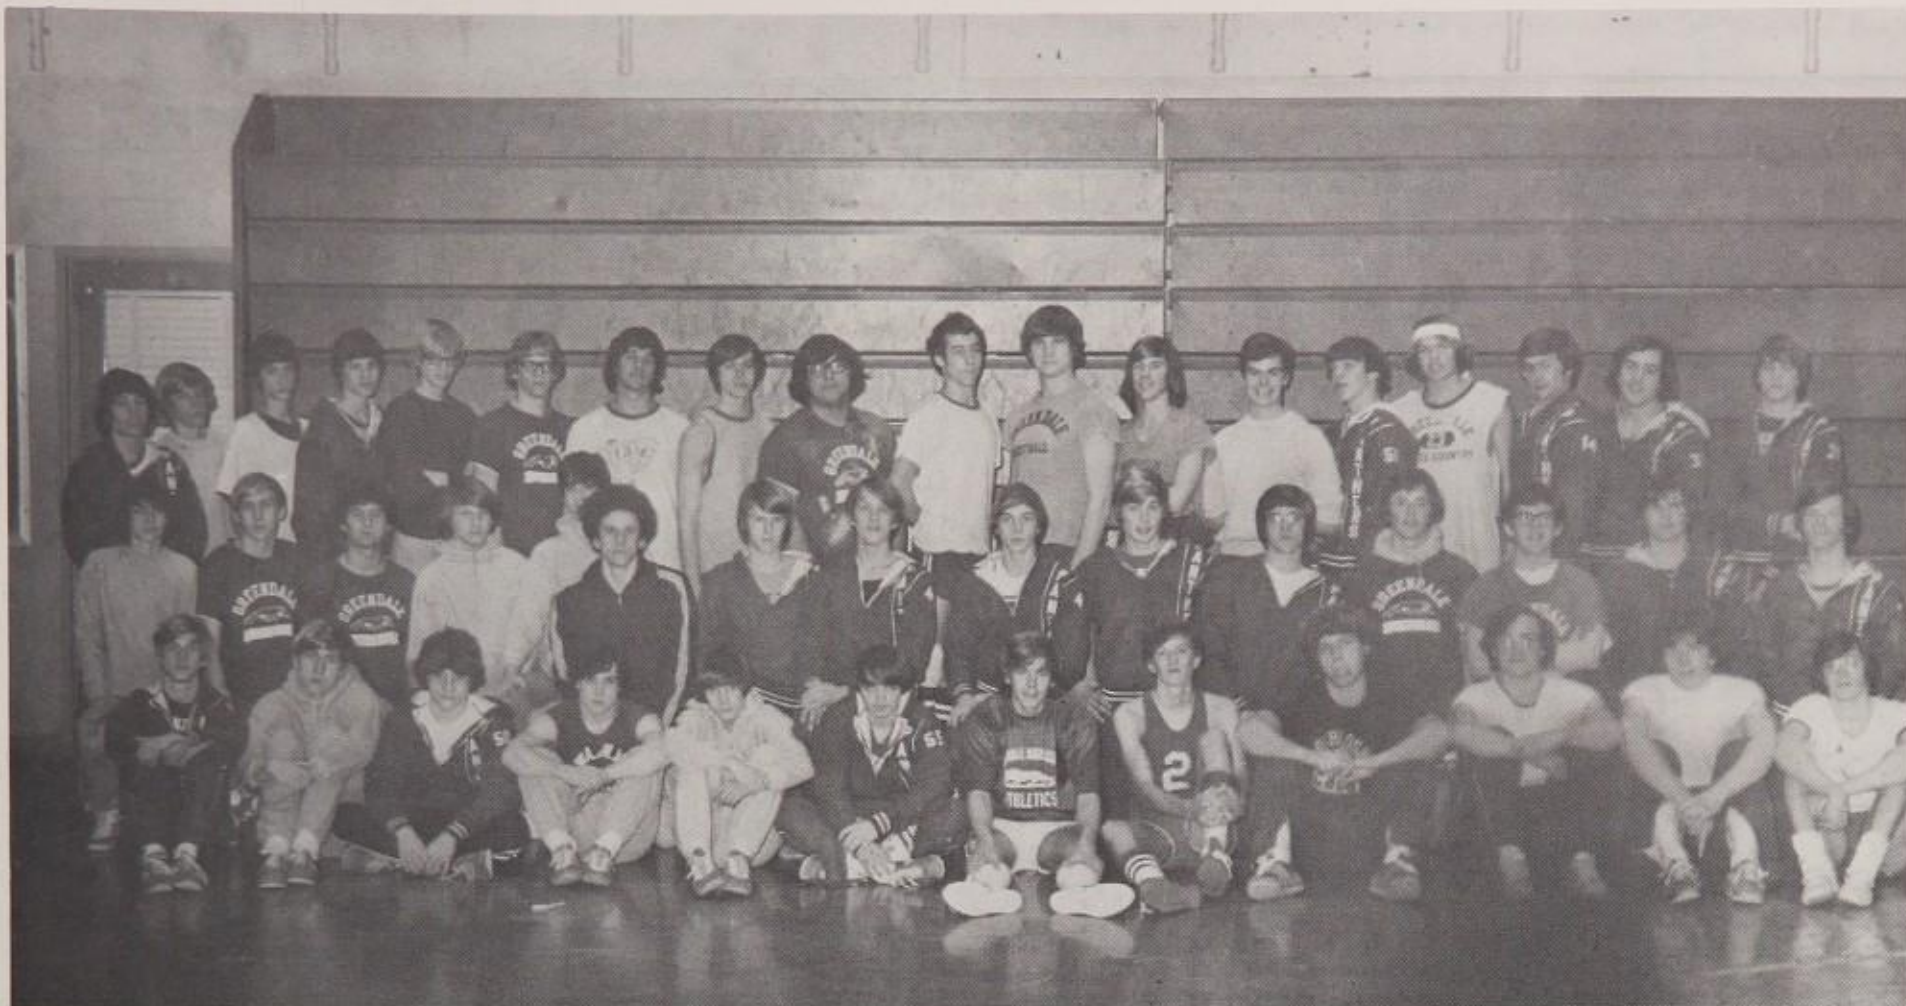

The boys' season started off on the right foot: they placed fourth out of 12 teams at the West Allis Invitational, beating all of the other Parkland schools. Greendale hosted the first Indoor Conference meet, which was a good challenge to the team.

Talented boys were numerous in every field — the hard practices helped to put them in top shape. Freshmen boys were somewhat experienced, having had track during junior high. The next four years look quite promising.

Girls' Track Team

The Girls' Track Team, initially composed of 83 members, strove to get in shape right from the start. Their practices involved exercises with the boys, then indoor running and sprinting to condition the heart and the lungs. Weight room facilities and isometrics were used to prevent shin splints and sore muscles. Coaches made sure that everyone was working up to her full potential.

Hard practices paid off: the team placed first in the Cudahy Invitational with 23 points. The majority of the team were inexperienced freshmen. Because of the weather, one third of the season was spent practicing indoors where facilities were limited and the coaches had to rely on the few upperclassmen that they did have for the first meets. However, to the coaches and the girls the season ahead looked quite promising. The highlight came in May, when they competed in the first Parkland Conference Girls' Track meet.

1. Carri Skoczek and Julie Schiek ran the mile for Greendale at Cudahy. 2. Donna Revolinski showed perfect running form. 3. Mary Schultz pulled ahead to place in the 880. 4. Starting block form was drilled on during practice. 5. Kathy Belk was the first leg of the 880 relay that placed first at the Cudahy meet.

Boy's Varsity Golf

Greendale's Golf team is the defending Parkland champion. Their goal for this season is to maintain this title. The team has only one returning letterman, and four returning Junior Varsity players. This young team worked out every night, either in the gym, outside, or at the Whitnall Park golf course. Each team match won counts toward conference standings. These standings are important for the Conference meet which is May 18. Mr. Dennis Kresse, from Intermediate, will be assisting as freshman golf coach.

The boys out for golf this year have the ability to repeat last year's performance, if they practice harder and give more. We have a good, talented crop of frosh players, too. (Coach Jim Rouse)

Organizations

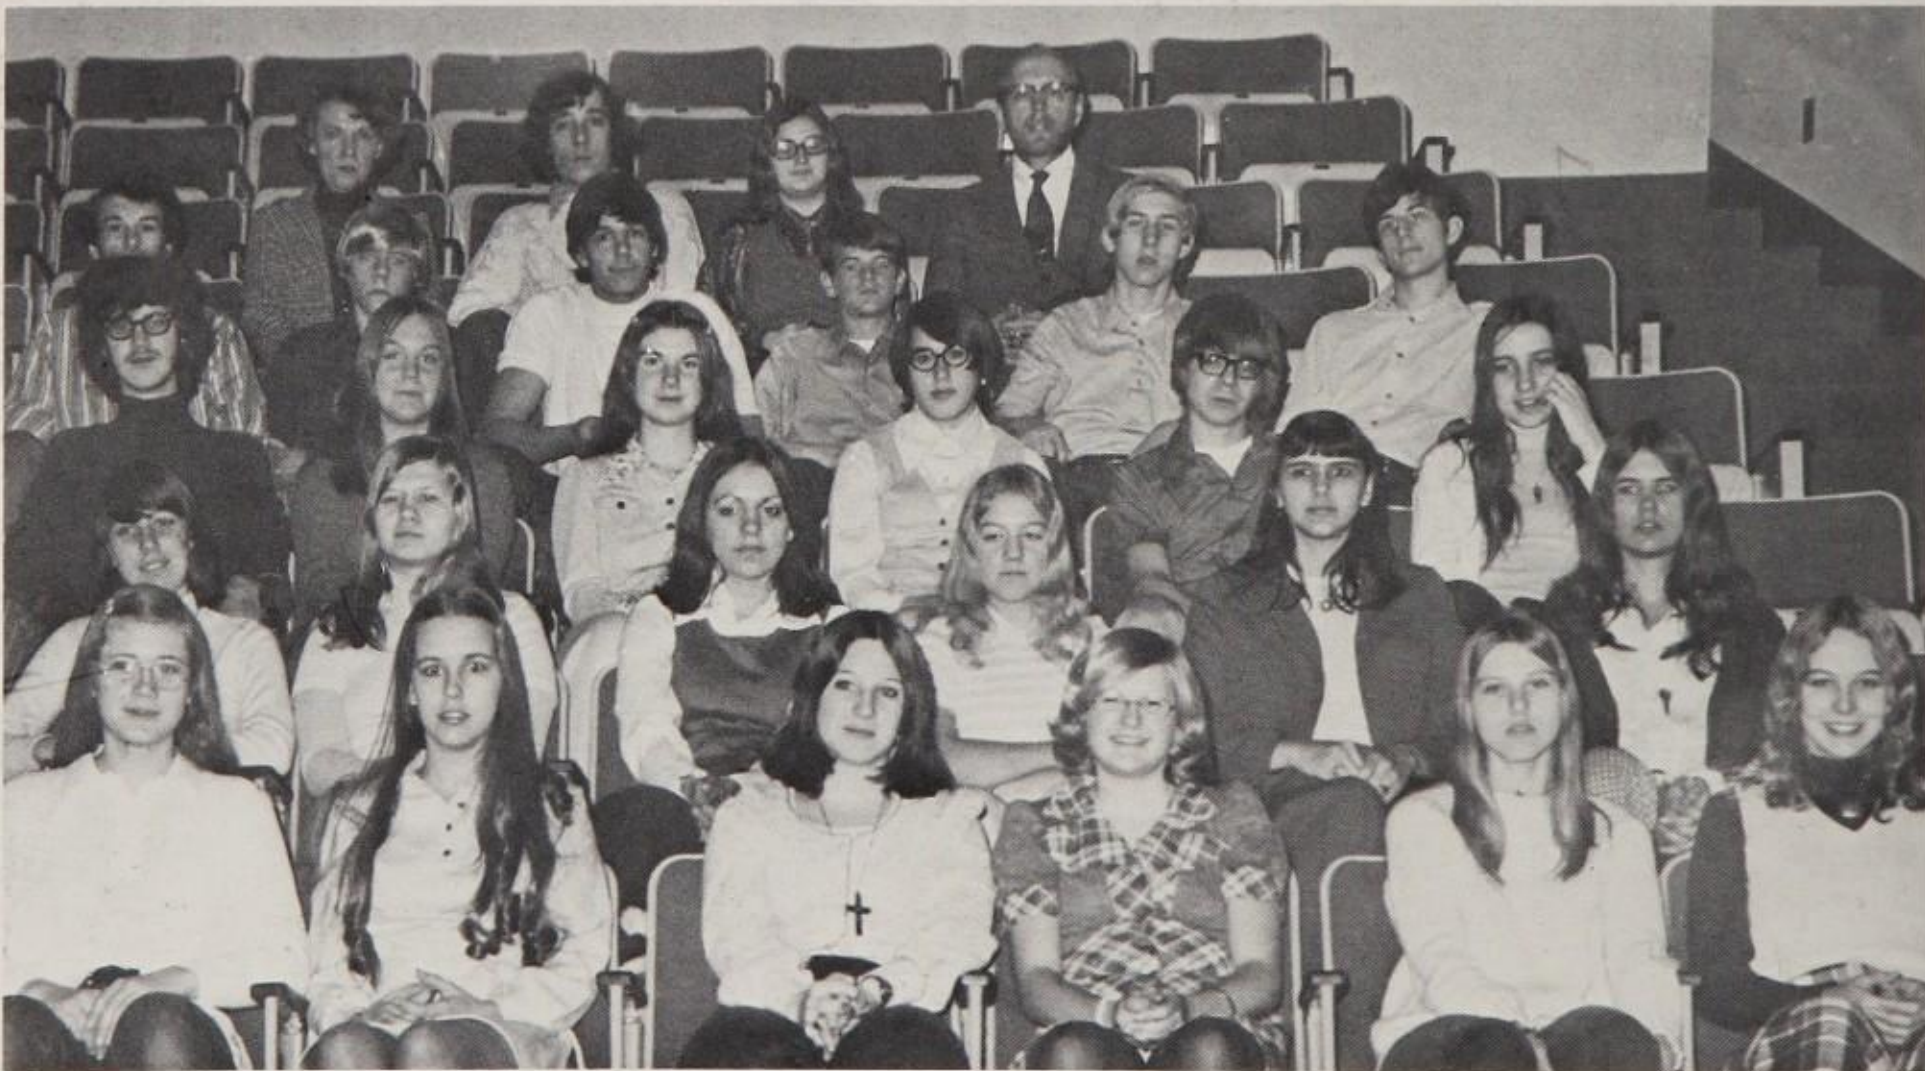

Library Service

With resource and staff expansion the need for more workers in the library during the school day became apparent. Mr. Dean Russell, head librarian, scheduled up to six workers per hour on semester shifts. These workers checked out materials, filed magazines and shelved returned books. Because they were assigned to the library they did not have to sign out of study hall each day, which was an advantage.

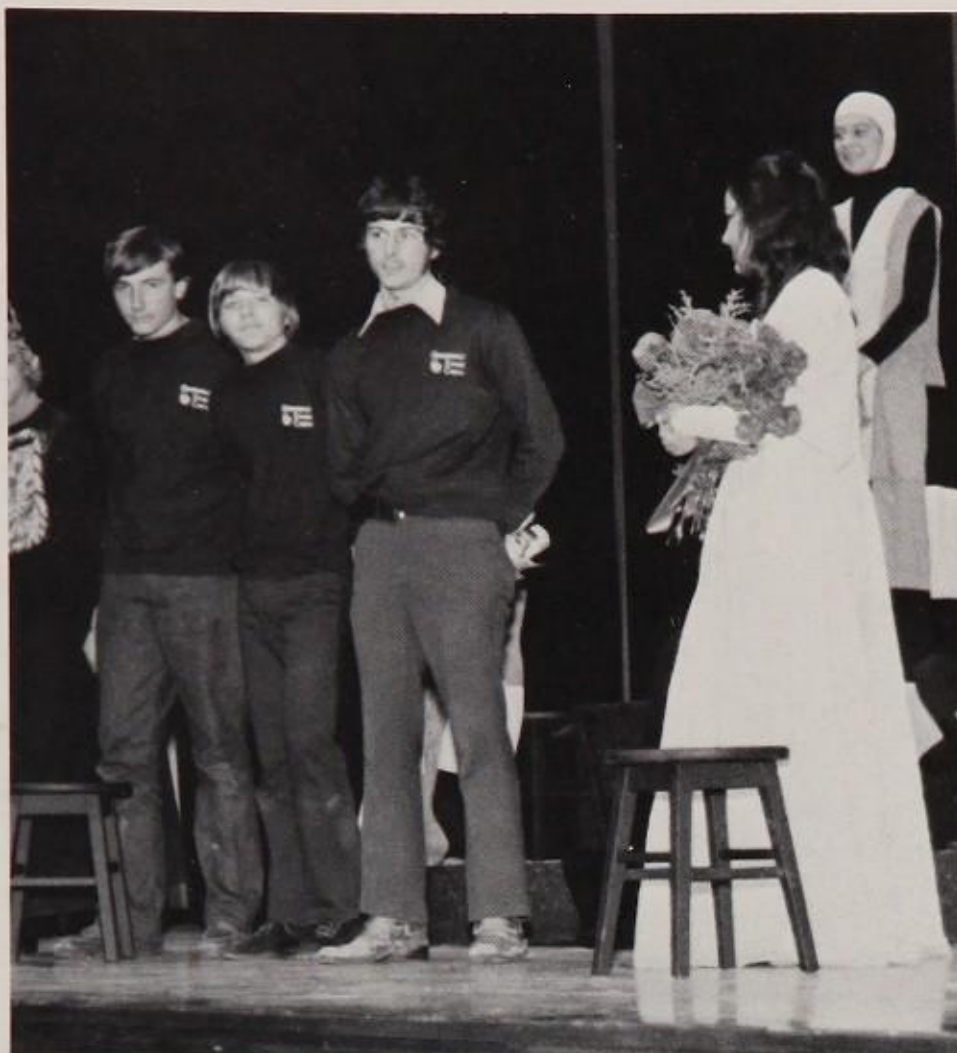

Working closely with the library helpers were Mrs. Ricco's audio-visual department workers. These people knew how to run every piece of equipment in the department. Tapes, recorders, record players, film projectors and a wide variety of records were among the equipment the school had the opportunity to use. It was also the boys' job to pipe in the music for the Grand March at Prom and set up all stage microphones for assemblies in the auditorium and the gym.

Cheryl Edwards, senior, alphabetized all of the library passes for attendance purposes.

LIBRARY SERVICE — ROW 1: N. Bach, J. Olive, V. Owens, C. Hall, D. Klatt, L. Bitzer. ROW 2: S. Strauss, C. Nichols, S. Spargur, C. Webb, C. Edwards, G. Matuszek. ROW 3: D. Anderson, T. Parr, L. Stage Crew

Stage Crew's ability to carefully illuminate and amplify all of the usual auditorium happenings went quite unnoticed. Perhaps, this was because the audiences were unaware of their presence. Truly, these unsung heroes played major parts in the production of Antigone, The Apple Tree and the annual Sea Sprites show in the pool.

Under the direction of Mr. Robert Heiss, these boys provided beautiful and perfectly matched background music for the plays and assemblies in the auditorium. However, their help was openly appreciated by the cast and crew of Antigone when they acquired a high regional rating.

Stage Crew's fine sound and lighting techniques exhibited in Antigone were acknowledged at its final performance.

STAGE CREW — ROW 1: M. Jones, P. Sommers, S. Zimmerman. ROW 2: P. Revolinski, M. Stewart, M. Dunn. TOP ROW: Advisor R. Heiss, G. Weber, A. Vilunias.

Swing Choir, Jazz, Pep Bands

This year Swing Choir performed for many organizations around the village. They also selected songs from movie soundtracks to sing at the Christmas Concert and the AFS Talent Show.

"It gives the members a chance to have fun while doing something creative and worthwhile. Every member has a sincere desire to share the beauty of song and dance with those who might appreciate it." (Jane Kaczmarek)

The Pep Band or the Jazz/Rock Ensemble usually accompanied the Swing Choir in their performances. The Ensemble was started this year by Mr. Doug Gruehn to bring back the jazz songs of the 60's. The Pep Band played at basketball games, backing up the Pom-pon Girls. Their music was similar to the Jazz/Rock Ensemble's, in fact, many of the players belonged to both groups.

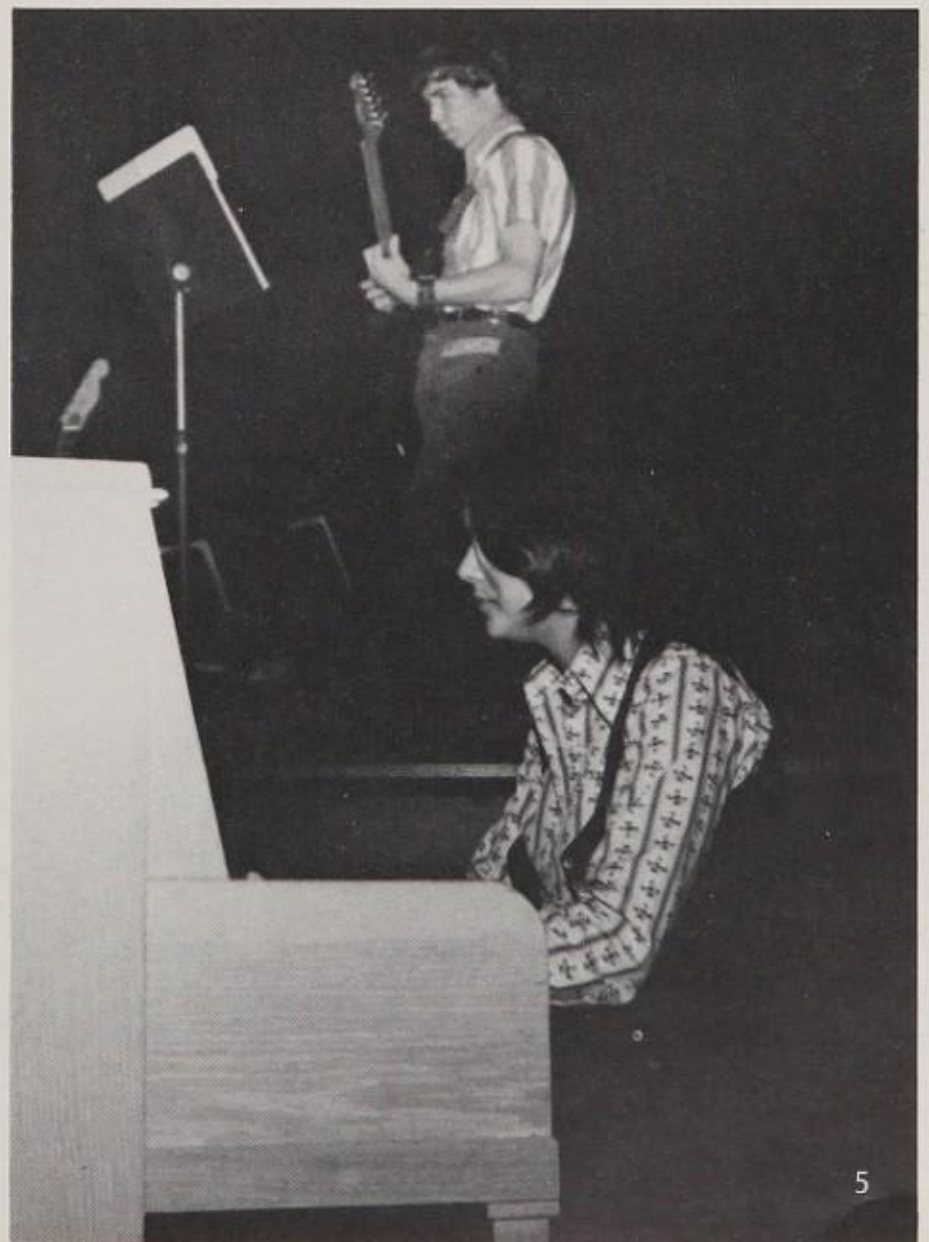

"Sounds that are omnipresent oft times become taken for granted. Because the GHS Jazz/Rock Ensemble is not omnipresent, it and it's fine personnel are destined to receive accolades similar to 'neat' and 'keen', if not 'bonzo'." (Doug Gruehn)

1. Leanne Boris, french horn player, caught taking her eyes off the music stand. 2. Accompanying the Swing Choir were Leann on the bass, Mary Jo on the piano, and Andy on the drums. 3. Swing Choir swayed while singing their songs. 4. The Jazz/Rock Ensemble played just that: jazz and rock hits. 5. Cathy Horst accompanied the Ensemble while Bob Gerth played the guitar.

Camera Club

Deluged with requests from the Pioneer Monthly and hounded by the Pioneer Yearbook, the Camera Club, under Mr. James Mortensen's able direction, once again came through. Regardless of small mishaps such as broken lenses and scratched negatives, lost negatives, old chemicals; even though pictures were taken when there wasn't any film in the camera, the Camera Club preserved the year in photos.

The group was small and inexperienced this year, but they grew dependable as they learned by doing. Much of their fine work can be seen in every issue of the Pioneer Monthly and throughout the Pioneer yearbook.

1. and 2. Bill Cook and Rich Dembinski had the most experience in the group. They shot, printed and developed the majority of the pictures for the Pioneer staffs. They were also responsible for teaching the basic fundamentals to the underclassmen of the group.

CAMERA CLUB — LEFT TO RIGHT: R. Zimmer, B. Konkol, B. Cook, Advisor J. Mortensen, S. Damiani, R. Dembinski, R. Zimmer.

Sea Sprites

The Sea Sprites annual show was held in the spring this year instead of the fall, giving the girls more time for practices. All routines were uniquely oriented to each month of the year. Money needed to buy the show costumes was raised at the donut sale in the spring. Club officers were elected and tryouts were held. The girls who made it were traditionally initiated.

The group had a new advisor, Mrs. ShirleeJo Black, who entered them in an AAU Synchronized Swim Invitational. The girls got a lot of new ideas and gained experience from their participation.

"With the change of the show to spring, practices interfered with track practice and cheerleading and pom-pom tryouts. Many of the girls were at school until late and our school work was often thrown aside. However, the time we spent paid off. The show was very successful and we are all very thankful for Mrs. Pat Karlovich's and Mrs. ShirleeJo Black's unlimited help. Without it we wouldn't have survived the year." (Kate Rice, president)

Despite the inexperience and hard luck of the high school's boys sports teams, the girls were, ironically, very athletically inclined. These sports oriented females were urged to join the Girls' Athletic Association, more commonly known as GAA.

According to attendance of Monday meetings, awards were given yearly to persons holding a certain number of points. Each season offered a variety of sports — intramural and interscholastic. Classes competed for top notch positions in each sport. In the fall, the seniors won the football title, and in winter, the juniors won the volleyball award. Ability was evenly distributed throughout the grades but the seniors were the most talented this year.

Pioneer News

The Pioneer Monthly and Weekly were the main sources of communication at Greendale High School. The Pioneer Monthly sought to entertain as well as inform the students of public issues and happenings throughout the month. The Weekly provided students with the latest news and events of the week. Final decisions of organizations, plans for activities, late scores and winners of various contests were announced in this paper. Sports highlights were also described, giving the student the playback of a game which he might not have attended.

"Striving for an All-American NSPA rating, the Pioneer Monthly tried to inform, enthuse and entertain the students of GHS. It attempted to cover all areas of not only school life but life around us as well. There was something of interest in every issue for each and every student and faculty member at the high school." (Steve Arend, editor-in-chief).

Senior Steve Arend, Pioneer Monthly editor-in-chief, did the majority of the initial planning and the final pasting up.

Green Peppers

Green Peppers, the major service organization at GHS, expertly handled the many extra-curricular activities this year. Girls were awarded points for everything they volunteered to do. Through the arrangements made by Mrs. Wendy Tutton, Miss Mary Quirk and Mr. Arne Engebretsen, Green Peppers painted posters to advertise school happenings, took tickets at all home sports activities, and seated the audiences at the fall play and spring musical. At Thanksgiving they prepared baskets for the House of Peace, a community center downtown.

The money-making division of Green Peppers raised revenue by ice cream sales and the donations at the auditorium coat check. This money went towards the annual school gift presented to Mr. Ross at the end of the year.

1. Mickie Smith, center, munched on a Green Peper ice cream sandwich during second lunch. 2. 1973-74 Green Peper officers were: Cindi Gerger, president; Karen Porter, vice-president; and Kathy Snow, treasurer. 3. Sophomore Peper Doreen Gendrich sold candy to Jim Warren and Tom Phalon at a night basketball game.

Pom-pom Girls, Cheerleading Squads

The Pom-pom Squad entertained at the half-times of all home football and basketball games. The routines were all originally made up by the girls. They performed to the many modern tunes of the Senior Band in the fall and the Pep Band during the winter. Advisors Kate Ernst and Nina Monahan saw to it that long hours of practice were spent perfecting their timing and appearance. To raise money for summer camp and new uniforms next year, the girls held car washes, sold mums at Homecoming, and had monthly donut and bake sales.

The cheerleading squad this year consisted of six Varsity girls with two alternates and six Junior Varsity girls. The Varsity squad was required to cheer at all football and basketball games. Swimming and wrestling meets were alternated with alternates and the Junior Varsity squad. The Varsity squad was very experienced this year: four of the six girls were seniors and had been cheering for three years.

1. Josann Reynolds and Cheri Broderick practiced their "Victory" cheer which they performed on the basketball court during time-outs and between quarters. 2. Mary Griffith climbed atop Kitty Kienzle for the "Charge" mount, supported by Cheri Broderick and Kathy Olenchek on both sides. Jean Johnson would eventually move down into splits to end the cheer.

FBLA, FTA, DECA

The FBLA, FTA and DECA clubs at Greendale are each branches of nation-wide organizations. These organizations hold state and national conventions and elections which the three clubs attend each year.

The Future Business Leaders of America collected Betty Crocker coupons to raise money to buy a bus for the Winnebago State Mental Institute. They also sent members to Leadership Labs.

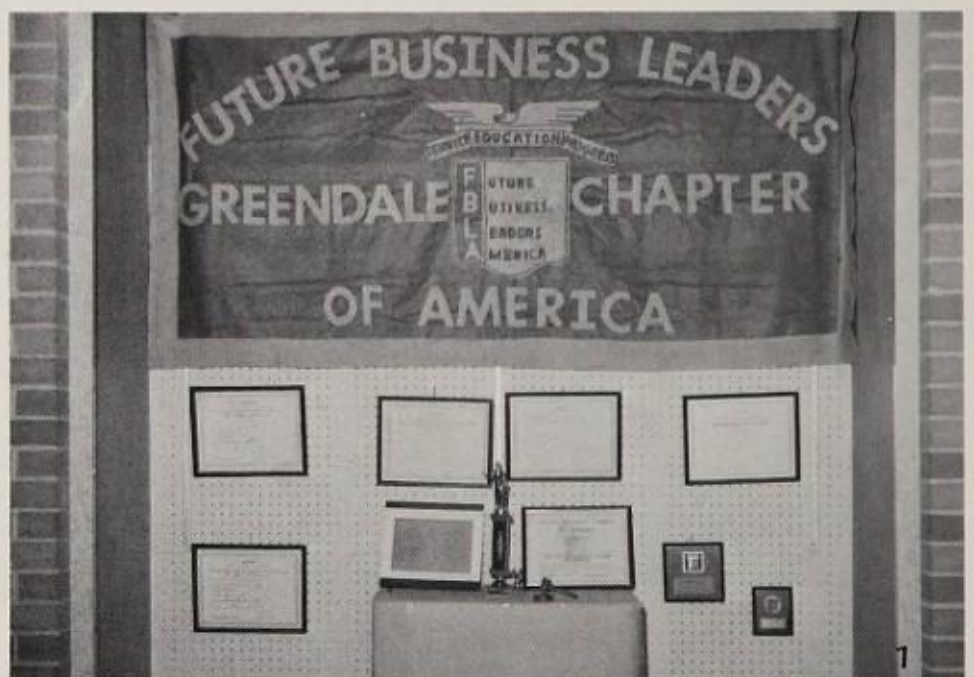

The Future Teachers of America club limited itself to raising money to help students interested in education. The organization had bake sales and the money went to the students through GOES, (a Greendale scholarship organization).

The Distributive Education Clubs of America division was a new club at Greendale this year. They attended State Leadership Labs, and at Christmas traveled to St. Luke's Hospital in Milwaukee to sing carols and give the younger children comic books. They raised money by selling Valentine's Day candy and baked goods at lunch.

1. The FBLA's trophies, plaques and banner were put on display in the auditorium lobby during the fall. 2. The DECA club ran the book store at lunch and after school to raise money. This is one of their displays to advertise the clothing that they sold there. 3. FBLA members met frequently to discuss their state convention trip in March.

Debate, Forensics Teams

A record of fourteen trophies were won by the Varsity Debate team this year. Their topic was "Resolved: That the federal government should provide a program to employ all employable United States citizens living in poverty." The team won the Parkland Conference trophy and culminated their season in the April state finals at Madison, where they placed eleventh. Both the novice and JV teams ended their seasons at the Tournament of Champions where only teams that had won a first place trophy during the season could participate.

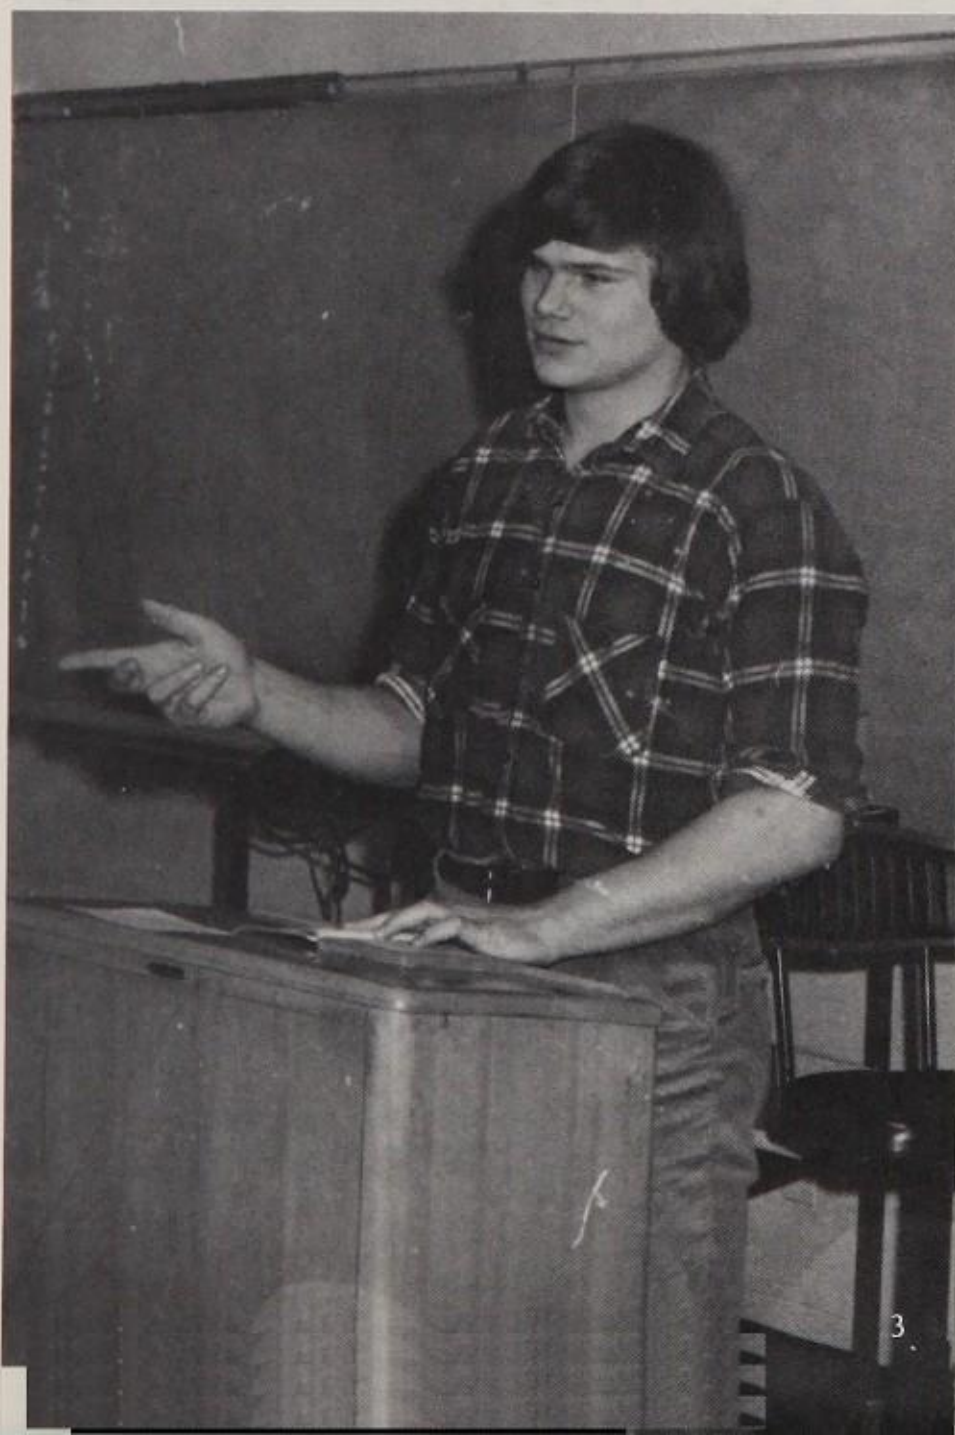

From alcohol and transcendental meditation, to a cutting from "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown", the 1974 forensics season ran the streak of serious to shenanigans. The squad was cut down to the two best students in each category, and these students participated in the sub-district competition. Those who received an A rating here went on to the district competition. State positions were open to the students that received A ratings at this meet.

Judges at the local contest were English teacher, Karen Olson and Debate coach, Janice Settle. Memorization, English usage and hand motions were things they considered.

S.F.A. Board

For the third year in a row Greendale High School had a new form of student government. This year the student body voted on a Student-Faculty Administrative Council for its leadership. SFA provided the unity that the school seemed to need. Students and faculty members worked together to improve things for the good of the students and the school. Some of the topics brought up were: new and different smoking areas and updated Student Bill of Rights, student-teacher evaluation forms, and exemptions. One of SFA's important committees was the communication committee, which kept the school informed on what was happening in the meetings.

1. The SFA Council officers were: Jill Andrae, secretary; Cheryl Mochalski, president; Tori Rand, vice-president; and Ron Koehn, executive secretary. 2. Regular meetings were held in Principal Henry Ross' conference room during and after school hours.

O.A.C.C.

Organizational Activities Co-ordinating Committee was a busy group this year. They planned a different school activity each month for the benefit of the student body. O.A.C.C. organized Homecoming, making it a week-long event which involved students in such events as hall decorating, olympic games, and the parade. Next was Boundary Breaking in October. In December O.A.C.C. held their second annual blood drive. A special all day student awareness day was planned for February 1. A Valentine's Day dance, more values' days, and another blood drive show that there's more to O.A.C.C. than bake sales.

1. President Tori Rand called for order and the committee discussed "In Search of Values Day". 2. Juniors Karen Kovacic, Diane Koceja, Michelle Vineyard and Barb Bates each represented a different organization in O.A.C.C.

International Club

International Club initiated a lot of activities this year to raise money for a foreign exchange student and to help send a student from Greendale High School abroad.

The annual Pizza Sale, usually a major fund-raising event, was not so successful this year. The pizzas were already made and, as a result, student involvement was limited to delivery. At Christmas time, students brought new and used toys for the Toy Share-athon. They toys were wrapped and taken to the Guadalupe Center to be distributed by volunteers. The club also organized a coat check at Boston Store. Members of the club worked in shifts during the Christmas season to take the coats of the many shoppers.

The club honored Aud Gjorwad at a Pot Luck Dinner and also visited numerous foreign food restaurants in the city to taste of the many different cultures.

1. Leanne Boris publicized the Talent Show at a recent club meeting. All participants were asked to register with the advisor, Ms. Mary Quirk. 2. International Club officers were: Leanne Boris, president; Mario Loduca, Kate Ernst, advisors; Terre Borkovec, treasurer; Sue Berndt, vice-president; Mary Quirk, advisor; and Linda Mendini, secretary.

Ticket Sales

Tickets were required for admission to all sports activities and most school activities. The tickets were sold by the newly formed organization, Ticket Sales, at lunch and after school for half price admission to sports games and full price admission to the plays.

This year buying a ticket was a little different for home basketball games and wrestling meets. In the past, tickets were sold at the door up until halftime. This year, according to a new Parkland Conference rule, tickets were sold from the new orange ticket booth throughout the entire game or meet.

1. Liz Seastrand gave up many lunch hours to sell tickets to students at the auditorium ticket booth. By buying tickets early students could avoid the hassle of buying tickets at the door.
2. Tim Styza bought his ticket for a basketball game from Cheryl and Karen, and Cindy Gerger waited in line.

Pioneer 1974 Yearbook Staff

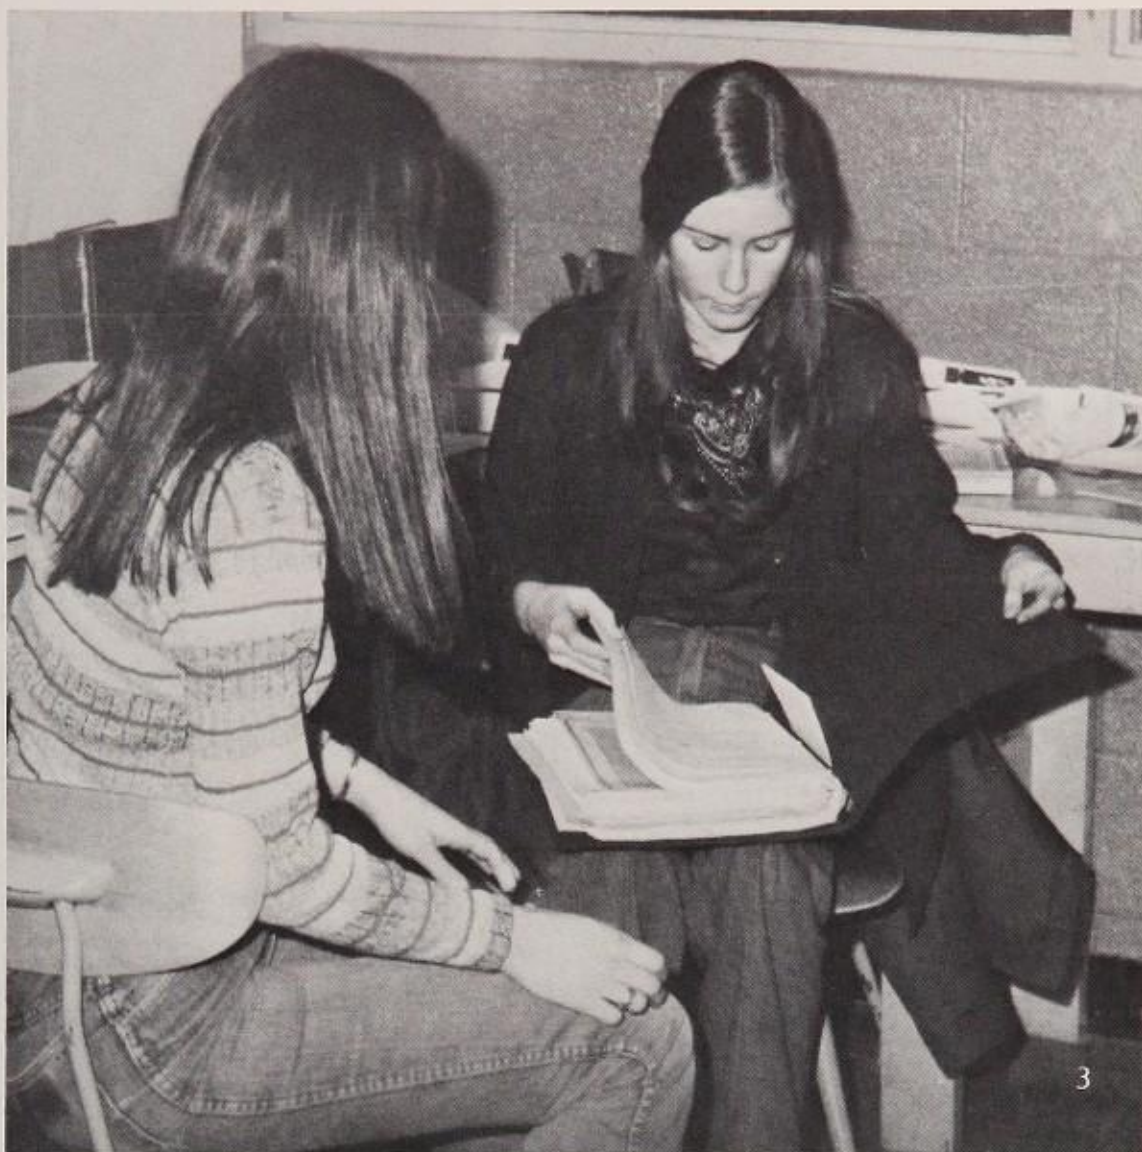

This year there were a great many changes in the 1974 Pioneer. For the first time there were three editors, Tori Rand, Jo Thomson, and Karen Kienzle, doing all the work producing the yearbook. Decisions were made: no homeroom pictures, color pages, division pages, headlines, type for copy, theme, and artwork. The editors got a camera and took many of the pictures needed. The mini-staff was confronted with an enormous job: find and record, through pictures and words, the history of Greendale High School. In October planning the book page by page was exciting. By January the never-ending deadlines were becoming an overpowering task for the three editors. Determination paid off, however, for the finished product was worth the effort.

1. STAFF OFFICERS WERE — FRONT: Editors K. Kienzle, T. Rand, J. Thomson. BACK: Advisor F. Lee, Cameraman B. Cook, Advisor P. Eickstaedt. 2. Cheryl Jaeger, sales manager, posted many of the publicity signs herself. 3. Jo Thomson and Tori Rand reviewed the progress of the book. 4. Brenda Ryther and Patty Szczesny spent free time writing copy. 5. Mr. Rod Williams, American Yearbook Representative, commented to Karen Kienzle on special effects (see page 113). 6. A Pioneer 1974 Sexy Legs fund-raising event was won by John Loeding. 7. Karen Kienzle choked her way through many of the deadlines.

Lettermen's Club

Lettermen's Club activities expanded to raise money to buy new blazers this year. In January, they held a contest that featured pictures of thirteen different teachers at some time in their life. The person, paying 10¢ for each guess, who guessed all of them correctly received five free tickets to the Texas Cowgirls' game. Through the help of advisor Bob Churchill, the boys invited the Texas Cowgirls, an all-girl basketball team, to come to our school and play the faculty. The boys volunteered to sell tickets to the public at the stores on their free time.

The group was very large this year, consisting mainly of underclassmen. Much of their success was attributed to the advisors, Ron Barbian and Bob Churchill.

1. 1973-74 LETTERMEN'S CLUB OFFICERS WERE — ROW 1: Advisor R. Barbian; Secretary D. Gawlik; Treasurer B. Burch; Advisor R. Churchill. ROW 2: President D. Broderick; Publicity Manager R. NHS, Merit Scholars

Meetings of the National Honor Society were few, but those that were held covered all the important issues. Officers were elected. The annual banquet had to be decided on, and speakers selected for the induction ceremony.

The details of the yearly 'book signing' induction ceremony assembly were worked out weeks in advance. National Honor Society was involved in its yearly fund raising for GOES' scholarships. Members and students sold candy bars to anyone and everyone — for a good cause.

1. National Honor Society officers for the 1973-74 school year were: Debbie Luetzow, treasurer; Mary Jo Kovacic, secretary; Andrew Kapsos, advisor; Pete Malicki, president; and Dan Davenport, vice-president. 2. Receiving a letter of commendation for their high scores on the PSAT/NMSQT tests were Tori Rand, left; and Terre Borkovec, right. The National Merit Semifinalist was Steve Heipel, center.

ACADEMICS

Board, Administration Faced Complications

Greendale High School's first Annual was produced and its first senior class was graduated just 25 years ago. We were then a school of only 270 which enabled every teacher and every student to know one another. We had fewer activities in those days but enough to permit most students to be quite active. Students seemed concerned more with their school life and one another than they were with the problems of the world. Maybe they were happier. We've grown many times as large and our curriculum and activities have become very extensive. Thus greater opportunities to fulfill divergent interests are here. Students then and now have the same needs to achieve some success and to be regarded well by others. The biggest difference seems to be that many young people today are trying to live lives beyond their years without finding it necessarily a happy experience. Students today know more about everything than their counterparts of a quarter century ago but our lives were simpler then. (Henry Ross)

1973-74 SCHOOL BOARD (LEFT TO RIGHT): Barbara Meyer, clerk; Joseph Hennessy, treasurer; Kenneth Nelson, Harry Patin, and Leona Sattell, president.

1. Vice Principal Ray Petitpren and Principal Henry Ross attended most SFA meetings. 2. Superintendent Dr. William Knapp's many jobs included his attendance at every School Board meeting. 3. The meetings were open to the public and were held the first and third Monday of each month.

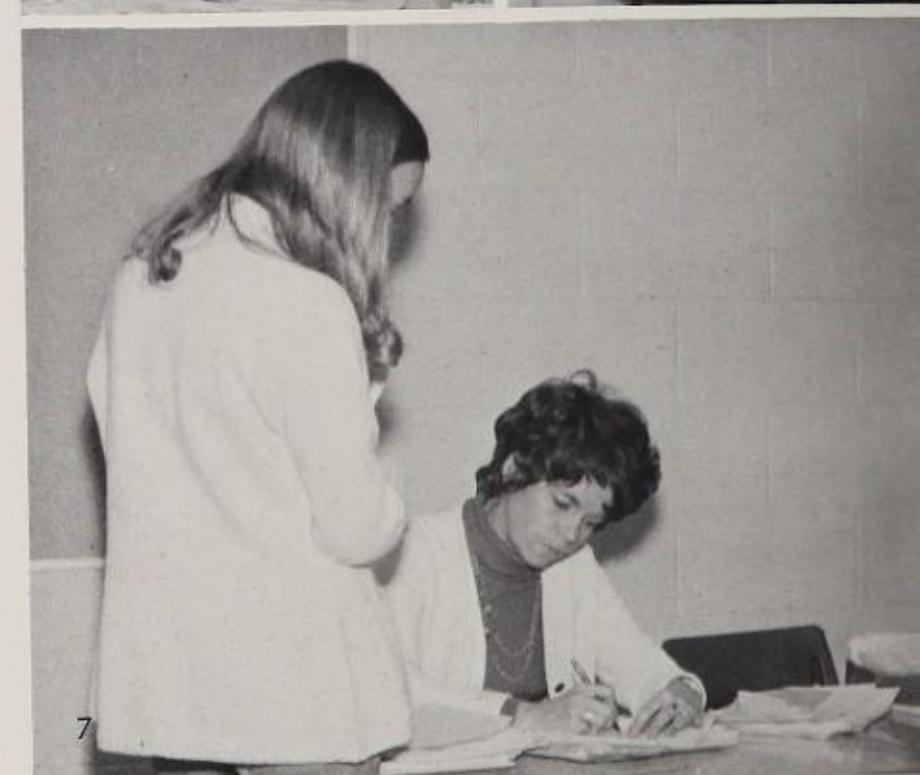

Secretaries, Monitors Worked to Keep Order

The success of the 1973-74 school term was greatly attributed to the office, study hall, kitchen and custodial staffs. To students their work seemed repetitive and monotonous, but to the performers it was always different, and each day was equally important.

Secretaries kept the organizations' money affairs straight and worked mainly with the faculty, while Student Personnel kept track of all of the students attendance records, grades, and curriculums.

Study hall monitors were faced with a much larger task when the SFA passed the Student Commons. The lunchroom was converted into an informal study area for upperclassmen for the majority of the school day, and freshmen were restricted to the quiet study hall in 158 or the library.

1. Anne Weber was the ever-pleasant voice at the switchboard each day. 2. John Szibel befriended the majority of the students at GHS. 3. The bookwork of the main office for the faculty and Mr. Ross was done by Betty Gaudynski, left, and Marion Loudenslager, right. 4. Barbara Ptacek scheduled students for conferences with the Guidance department. 5. Irene Olive, left, worked in the main office and Dorothy Modert was scheduled to be the Math-Science Resource Center secretary. 6. Lin Jensen chatted with junior Nancy Berner during a morning study hall. 7. Study Hall Monitors — left to right: John Szibel, Dorothy Modert, Lin Jensen, and Charlotte Nepple. 8. Mercedes Sebestyen readmitted students each morning. 9. Janet Nelson, Guidance department secretary, administered Iowa tests to absent underclassmen. 10. Cheryl Gehrke, assistant principal's office secretary, worked mainly on student attendance records.

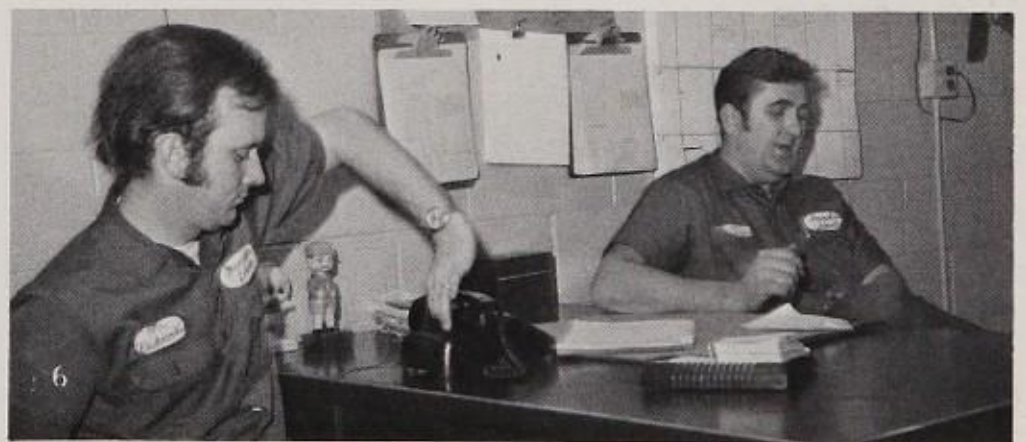

Custodians, Cooks Deserve Much Praise

The new lunch program included an ala-carte set-up where a variety of sandwiches and snacks were offered. The cooks baked homemade bread each day and that delicious aroma remained in the halls for hours.

The custodial crew once again diligently and patiently kept our high school spotless. They transformed the multi-purpose room back into a lunchroom overnight after it was used every afternoon for the informal commons. The janitors worked after school and long hours on weekends to clean up after the many extra-curricular activities offered year around here.

1. Betty Damask and Rose Westermann prepared sandwiches for that day's lunch periods. 2. Bruce Peterson worked as a part-time janitor in the afternoon. 3. Shirley Hefferman put the finishing touches on the many flavored puddings and desserts. 4. Marian Rice and Evelyn Truppe prepared the hot lunch that was to be sent to the elementary schools. 5. Kitchen Crew — left to right; Rose Westermann, Evelyn Truppe, Katherine Wolfe, Angie Pavelko, department head, Betty Damask, Marian Rice, Shirley Hefferman, and Margaret Braam. 6. Custodians, Mike Blaskowski and Robert Jaeger took it easy on their afternoon break down in the custodial office.

The IMC provided visual, audio and human resources for interested students at Greendale High School. More emphasis was put on providing help to the students to enable them to learn how to use the library's card catalogs and files, and the audio-visual tapes, films and records. The staff felt that this would help the students to feel more successful when researching on report topics for their classes.

Use of the library was mainly limited to freshmen during study halls, but many sophomores and juniors used it during classes, and seniors were often seen studying there during their IPR hours. The Center was a much needed and very important part of the school this year.

1. Mr. Russell paused on the end shelf of the encyclopedia and historical resource center. 2. "Halp!" 3. Mrs. Rene Ricco controlled the checking out of all audio-visual equipment and materials. 4. Mrs. Norma Forrai did most of the book work for the IMC and checked the attendance each hour. 5. Mr. Gruehn talked with senior girls on their IPR hour.

Guidance Department

"Kids will be kids." At least I hope so. Childhood-adolescence is such a short time of one's life, he should enjoy it while he can. I feel that young people today are more worldly, having traveled more than their predecessors, but in general, they are not too much different. They have the same desire, drives, and ambitions which their parents enjoyed at the same age. (L. Davies)

Oh, if only all the kids would stick to their original program and not keep changing classes — maybe then my hair would stop turning progressively grey. (A. Kapsos)

English Department

English at the junior level is oriented more toward the perception and understanding of the myriad motives of men, not only as found in literature but in real life also. There is a concentration on student interaction, application of various philosophical tenets "out there" on the historical horizon and on the need for each student to silently know the "who he is", the "what he is" and his potential destination among the living. (G. Hitchler)

The senior elective program initiated this year was designed to provide the students with a greater variety of classes so that they could fulfill their individual needs and interests. With the built-in flexibility, we were able to create new offerings as they were needed, and also to vary our teaching techniques. During this year of trial, we have, through the cooperation of the students involved, worked out what is a very successful and a very desirable program. (R. Heiss)

Social Studies Department

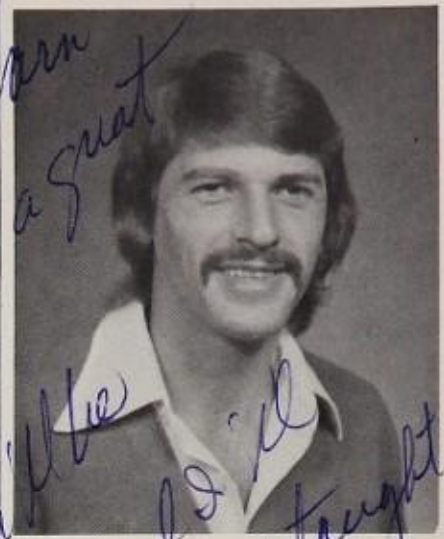

With the change to the 18 year old vote, the area of social studies has become very meaningful to the student. It is no longer the decisions of "old people" that determine U.S. policy. Young people are aware of their responsibility and most of them want to contribute to making the world a better place. In history, they see mistakes and they see the noble actions taken and they realize that understanding history can help to make the correct decisions. (C. Sheahan)

Transactional Analysis is concerned with the "Golden Rule" and human relations. Hopefully, each student will be stimulated to examine his/her behavior in relation to other people and take the necessary steps to improve his/her interpersonal relations with others. (P. Eickstaedt)

Home Economics Department

The Home Economics department stressed individual study in the sewing labs and encouraged the girls to work in pairs and threes or fours in the kitchens. The department also offered a class for boys to introduce them to bachelor-type living.

This is the second year the Home Economics Department conducted an independent study program. This program was designed to meet the needs and wants of the girls in all areas of Home Economics — Foods, Clothing and Individual in the Home. There were also many different and varied projects made. Such as: macramé, needlecraft, knitting, crocheting and hair pin lace, in addition to the clothing projects and foods. It was a very interesting and stimulating program for the students as well as teachers and I hope it continues with success. (L. Perszyk)

Industrial Arts Department

The Industrial Arts department is more technically-oriented than most of the other departments at Greendale High School. Its classes are open to both boys and girls. This year, a new course, Power Mechanics, was started, and the new teacher, William Schaller, used the old study hall 41 as his workshop. This course concentrated on the mechanics of all types of engines. The department's facilities were further expanded with the addition of a storeroom. People taking the courses had the chance to bring bigger and more intricate machinery to work because they now had a place to put it when they were not in class.

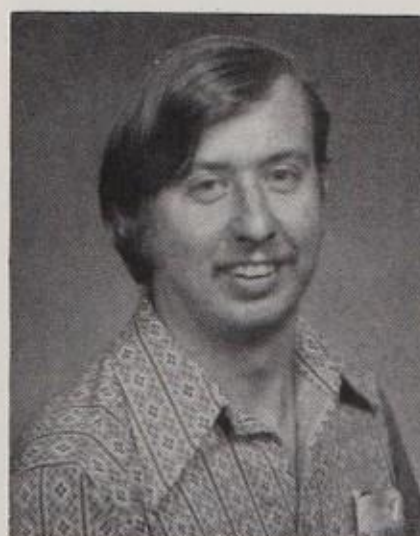

The many courses offered introduced the students to the mechanized industrial field. They learned by working right with the materials instead of learning by reading about it. Many people took these courses to give themselves the background in, for instance, auto mechanics, in case they decided to go into the field after high school, or work at it to get through college.

Foreign Language Department

The Foreign Language department's main goal was to help students to speak the language they studied fluently enough to be able to converse with a native of a country where it is spoken, if given the chance. Concepts on culture were also emphasized and movies, slide shows and pictures were viewed regularly to help the students visualize life in France, Spain and Germany.

At Christmas time, the three language classes got together to share their country's holiday customs. Festive foods and drinks were brought and tasted by all that attended. Reports were given on the customs of Spain, France and Germany, and Aud Gjorwad, AFS student, was asked to tell about Christmas in Norway. The festivities were open to other students who had study halls that hour and to all faculty and administrators.

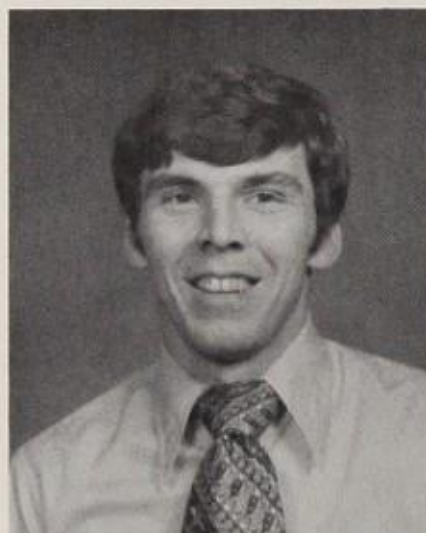

One reason I enjoyed teaching German was because it gave me a chance to show students that there are so many people in the world who are different from us and by learning a foreign language, we can communicate better, not only verbally but mentally as well. (K. Ernst)

Business Education Department

One of my main objectives is to make students aware of and understand how our free enterprise system works so they can use this knowledge to better themselves and the economy. As an example, this year's Business Economics class accomplished this through studying various industries, investigating companies, buying stock, doing individual research reports and by studying other important segments of our economy. (E. Bahr)

Marjory Hitchler

I feel the Distributive Education class offered many opportunities to the student who had a sincere interest in the world of business. Through classroom instruction, work experience and DECA activities, they can graduate from high school with a strong background in business and its fields. (D. Kuehn)

Science Department

The Science teachers introduced team-teaching to their department this year. Facilities for research were further expanded with the addition of the Science Resource Center. New safety devices became a mandatory part of the underclassman's laboratory. Sophomores met with mixed emotions the idea of not having to do a leaf collection for Mr. Mortensen's Biology class.

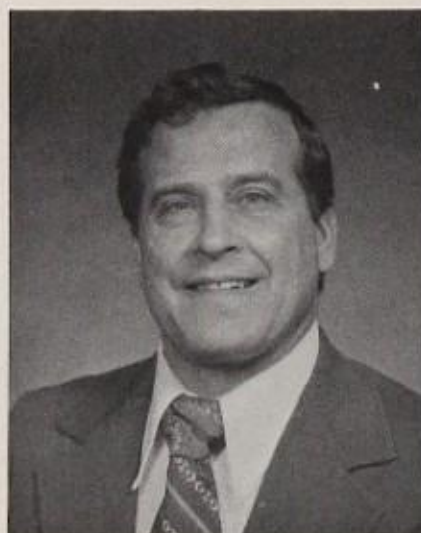

Chemistry has gone from a one tract course to two tract. It has gone from primarily a demonstration type course to an individual lab course. It has gone from a course where students primarily memorized isolated facts to one where students are learning broad concepts about chemistry. Unfortunately, students don't have the drive for learning that evidenced itself to me 25 years ago. There is now a general aversion of homework. However, I do feel that the students today are better informed. The courses offered are much deeper and more meaningful. (A. Stenson, department head)

Mathematics Department

With the addition of two desk-top calculators, the Mathematics department attempted to provide for students, the practice and opportunity of working with computational machines. These calculators were used in most math classes and were available during and after school in the Mathematics lab. (A. Engebretsen)

Probably the most important addition to the Math department this year was the Research Center. Hopefully, this won't be used only by the teachers, but by next year, students will be using it to the fullest. Some possibilities are studying, working with the computers, and just talking informally with the teachers in the room, to name just a few. (S. Carlson)

It was such a joy to have my own room this year after moving all around last year! I really enjoyed teaching Algebra. (D. Weyer)

Music Department

The Music Department involved individuals that belonged to the bands, orchestra and choirs. These three groups worked together to produce the spring musical, "The Apple Tree." Mr. Ronald Koehn, who directed the Concert Choir, was chairman of the department.

Mr. James Clinton directed the orchestra, whose first performance was at the Winter Concert held on January 31. The Cadet and Senior Bands played songs that entertained all ages at assemblies and football games. They also marched in the annual Memorial Day, Homecoming and Labor Day parades. Concert Choir toured England this spring. It's talents were divided into Chamber Choir, a red-robed group that also sang at the Winter Concert, and a Swing Choir, which sang more of the recent popular songs.

Art

The Exploratory Art program stresses more the two-dimensional aspect of art — more emphasis on basic design problems as well as drawing techniques. Weaving gained more attention — another floor loom was added. The additional room was used for weaving and fabric decoration as well as stage crafts. (V. Driscoll)

Even though no formal changes had been made in the art curriculum this year, more emphasis was placed on real understanding of the principles of design in art and our students' ability to use these principles in all aspects of art production. In today's world there is such a proliferation of non-art and pseudo-art that requires thoughtful evaluation since it subtly affects the consciousness of all of us. Understanding the principles involved in all artistic production should help responsible evaluation of these trends — just as knowing the principles of science help our understanding of physical phenomena. PLAY IT AGAIN . . .

What can I say to one of the beautiful people? I shall never forget you for you have done good things for my head. Karn, I know if I ever needed someone that you would be there. I'm glad it all happen the way it did 9 months ago in Sept. when I first met you. I really enjoyed cooking with you and reading your books. I feel you have your head together no matter what happens. Once you've got it together and you lose it, it always comes back. A funny episode is down at the Coffeehouse. Whenever the chicks can needed toilet paper, you always got it... taking care of Karen when she was straddling the toilet... Ted... (good luck with him. I think its a hopeless cause, but I know you won't give up. (someone has to help him and you're the right one)... to the time I stepped on the glass in 1-1A and of all people, you were there... Good luck Karn korek in all that you do and whatever happens you'll make it

Love,
Sue Noan
1974

P.S. I love you.

Karen,
I really wish I could have met you sooner. But, we still have summer. Thank you so much for the earrings.
Keep writing
those fantastic
poems.
Luck always,
Laurie

KARN (with no E)
But you are a really nutty person.
Work and very nice. You do great Out see ya + O.K. speeches. Hope to keep on summer.
Love Roman

Karn (and that's not KARN) whatever I say I know I won't be able to explain my true feelings sincerely, honest person like you I think I won't believe it? I will never forget you & your words & your smiles & your moods, cause when you forget a friend as great as you but to be a friend it is very sad but to be a sim- cause I love ya - and every kind of way you have.

I'll miss you so much
I don't see you this summer,
Kinda

Remember

you wrote in my English notebook?

I don't know how much you can see from here. I don't know how much you can see from here. I don't know how much you can see from here.

Karn

It was so nice talking with you in the halls this year. Hope we can do the same next year & maybe be in some classes I really admire your art talent - just think we'll be in Art IV next year - good!

Hope to see you this summer & have a fun one at that.

God's Love &

Cindy Sturnot

you a wonderful person. There isn't any other Karn in the whole world like you. You really helped me whenever I was down. You always make things a lot better in your down times. We had a lot of good times this year. We really got to know each other a lot better. Keep writing those poems. I love reading them. I'll try to write too. We have a fun summer ahead of us. I'll always remember you.

even though I call you a freak, I know you truly have been an H.S. favourite. People would love to pass up. I would just have to see you in the hall. Take it easy. Mary.
